Western Spread Of Cattle Plague Feared in B.C.

Blackest Days of Province Possible, Says Beef Official

Blackest days in the history of British Columbia may dawn at any time, if foot-and-mouth disease infects B.C. cattle, according to T. [illegible] Wilson, president of B.C. Beef Cattle Producers.

"I consider this emergency as great as a war," he said addressing the B.C. Resources Conference yesterday morning.

Warning that he was not trying to panic anyone, Mr. Wilson added that British Columbia faces, as a result of the cattle disease outbreak:

1. Possibility that Fraser Valley milk herds may be wiped out.

2. Wildlife in B.C. may be seriously depleted.

3. The province's tourist industry will collapse, and many tourists and guides depending on U.S. hunters will face ruin.

4. Meat supplies may drop to a trickle.

NEARLY IMPOSSIBLE

"If deer and other cloven-hooded wildlife contract the disease, it will be practically impossible to wipe it out," Mr. Wilson said.

The virus disease can be carried on humans in clothing, on animals' skins or in feed or it can exist in the ground, lying dormant for long periods. But breaks are fast because the incubation period is only three to four days.

"The virus may already be in B.C.," he said, although the embargo on shipping meat and livestock may close the door on infection.

No hunting trophies will be allowed into the United States from Canada and Mr. Wilson said, "We will not see American hunters this year."

"The tourist industry has suffered in B.C. as much as the cattle industry.

In the last outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in California he said, hundreds of thousands of cattle were slaughtered and at least 17,000 deer were killed.

I guess an outbreak of the disease occurs closer to B.C. than it is now, Mr. Wilson said, the regular provincial sale of bulls will be held.

Anyone unessential to the sale will be asked to stay away, he said.

There is a meat supply assured for the next 10 days or two weeks, he said, but supplies will be short as long as the embargo lasts.

TRYING MONTHS

"Three trying months are ahead," he said, although producers will try to keep the meat supply going.

The authorities feel no steps are too drastic, he warned, if the disease is to be successfully stamped out.

Sale of horsemeat will also be affected by the embargo because horses, although not susceptible to the disease can be carriers of the virus.

Local authorities believe Vancouver Island will not be seriously affected by lack of tourists since few hunters from the U.S. visit the Island. Resorts in the Cariboo will be hard hit, however.

First Cattle Slaughtered In Chill, Eerie Spectacle

REGINA, Feb. 29 (CP)—Two hundred diseased cattle were herded into a burial pit just outside Regina today. Then R.C.M.P. constables shot them with rifles.

The slaughtering was the first in the drive to rid the Regina area of animals suffering from foot and mouth disease. Within the next few days 600 more will be killed at other sites.

The scene of the first slaughter was both chilling and eerie. Biting winds swept across the snow-covered Prairie from the east. The mercury was down to 14 below zero.

The cattle were a mixed lot of beef and dairy animals, shorthorns, Herefords, Holsteins and Jerseys.

First aid kicks hung from the noses of some of the cattle. A few appeared to be frisky, and gave stock handlers a wide berth.

Some of the cattle appeared to be slobbering from the mouth and nose appeared lame.

The shooting endedat 3:35 p.m., 15 minutes after the first shot.

The trucks which brought the animals to the slaughter scene were boarded in and watertight, preventing any refuse from seeping through onto the roadway and possibly carrying the disease to infection free farms.

No New Cases Of Foot, Mouth

REGINA, Feb. 29 (CP)—Dr. N. D. Christie, Saskatchewan district veterinary inspector, said today that no new outbreak has been uncovered in Saskatchewan.

Dr. Christie said no disease has been reported from the Gull Lake district, 200 miles west of Regina.

A check was being made in the Gravelbourg area, 130 miles southwest of Regina, he said. A check at Pennant, near Swift Current, showed a disease reported there "is definitely not foot and-mouth disease," he said.

Pay Follows Troops Into Slit Trenches

Capt. Phil P. Decary of Montreal, paymaster for the Van Doos, pays off men of the regiment from a slit trench in a platoon position at the front. Such scenes are common in Korea, where paymasters climb hills to scattered units so men will have money for their canteen needs. (National Defense photo)

Little Girl "Very Poor" After Crash

A three-year-old girl is in very poor condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital following a traffic mishap.

DARLENE CORBETT

Darlene Corbett was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Ruth Ann Burnside, 1015 Burnside Road, about 10:15 a.m. yesterday.

Suffering from a fractured skull, two broken legs and other injuries, is Darlene Corbett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Corbett, 3230 Albina.

Saanich police blamed heavy traffic on an emergency run to hospital. They said she was crossing Burnside Road between Harriet and Davin when she was in collision with a truck.

Her five-year-old brother who was with her at the time escaped injury.

Police said the truck was driven by Frank Boyd of Newbury Avenue. No charges had been laid by late yesterday.

Fire Damage In Millions

LIVONIA, Mich., Feb. 29 (AP)—An explosion and fire which raged for three hours tonight caused damage estimated to run into millions of dollars at the partially completed Ford tank plant in Livonia, Mich.

Tax Return Ruling May Be Appealed

The Exchequer Court of Appeal may be asked to reverse Deputy Minister of Finance Dorothy Rungeling's ruling that income tax returns may be used as evidence in a Chinese gambling case.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said yesterday that the cabinet will consider referring the case to the court when Mr. Justice Whitlaw holds a two-day hearing next for the Appeal Court.

Mr. Justice Whitlaw said Thursday that the income tax files of 25 men and one woman on that count be introduced as evidence.

Fishing Boats, Crewmen Still Sought on Atlantic

HALIFAX, Feb. 29 (CP)—The Coast Guard and Royal Canadian Air Force continued the search today for two fishing boats and their crews of 10 men reported missing in heavy gales on the Atlantic coast.

Search planes from Torbay, Nfld., and Greenwood, N.S., covered the coastal areas without finding a trace of the missing vessels.

Elsewhere, life was returning to normal after the worst storm of the winter here hit over the Maritimes Wednesday night and lasted through most of Thursday.

The storm's worst victims were the 16-ton fishing boat of Emile Boudreau, Arichat, N.S., and the Boy and Girl, Lunenburg, N.S., and the Boy and Girl, Port La Tour.

The search was started when the craft failed to return after being reported seen by other boats off Canso.

The Boy and Girl, a vessel long used to the banks off Lunenburg, struck a reef off Cape Sable Island, N.S., on the Atlantic coast. It broke in two and sank.

At Sydney, N.S., Capt. [illegible] and two crewmen of the fishing vessel Ida Zita, out of Lunenburg, N.S., were rescued by the Canadian Pacific steamer Beaverbrae.

Police to Send Children Home After Curfew

Police in Vancouver will be instructed to watch children found on the streets after 9:30 p.m. beginning tonight.

Police Chief John Buckstaff said the police commissioner asked him to do so. He would instruct constables on the beat to watch the children and if the older ones ignore the curfew the constables would take their fathers' names and report to their parents.

The commission was discussing the recommendation from a parent-teacher group that the curfew be more strictly enforced.

The commission instructed the chief to take such action as he sees fit.

According to the curfew by-law all children under the age of 16 must be off the streets by 9:30 p.m. unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Québec Stand Lauded

B.C. Embargo to Stay Put

British Columbia Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman says he thinks Quebec is wise in imposing a drastic embargo on livestock and meat.

Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis announced last night a measure which will cut deeply into importations from western Canada by as much as 50 per cent.

"They're doing just the same thing as we are. If foot and mouth disease broke out among their livestock, it would ruin their industry, the same as B.C.'s," Mr. Bowman said.

In the case of B.C., he added, the restrictions will be maintained for some time.

Mr. Bowman said there was no change in the B.C. embargo on dressed meat and livestock from other provinces, but that some changes may have to be made to allow the entry of processed meats.

"The whole situation is very confused," he said.

Meanwhile, a German immigrant in Victoria was cleared yesterday of any possibility that he may be a carrier of the cattle disease.

There have been no farmer immigrants at the Victoria immigration centre, immigration inspector John Dorman said.

B.C. agricultural officials reportedly are discussing with officials in Washington, D.C., the advisability of relaxing the strict B.C. embargo.

Dr. W. R. Gorr, B.C. provincial veterinarian, said the province is trying to get U.S. advice on how to deal with the disease.

Stereotypers Accept Terms

Settlement has been reached between International Union of Stereotypers and Electrotypers (A.F.L.T.L.C.) and Victoria Press Ltd.

Settlement was brought about in meetings held by and on a formula by the Labor Relations Board.

A basic wage of $2.21 hourly is provided in the settlement to 13 employees. The union had asked $2.25 hourly for parity with Vancouver.

The wage agreement is retroactive to October 1, 1951.

Other modifications to the contract affect paid annual vacations.

"I am very pleased agreement has been reached," said Cyril Wightman, Victoria Press general manager.

With G. E. Mortimore

Victoria branch of the Society for the Prevention of Everything yesterday voted approval of the 9.30 p.m. curfew for juveniles, but urged that it be extended to include adults as well.

The society launched a campaign to prevent pro-Sunday baseball, horse racing, vaudeville performances, night clubs, open drinking of alcoholic beverages and wiggling the ears on Sunday.

The curfew proposal was put forward by Mrs. Emma Woolly, delegate from the Idle Matrons' League.

"Some control ought to be exercised over husbands, don't you think?" Mrs. Woolly suggested.

"I mean, a lot more remains to be done, although we have made considerable progress in controlling husbands' thoughts already, haven't we? Through the tireless efforts of this society, we managed to take crime comics away from husbands, although I must say the children are still getting them from somewhere. But progress has been made, hasn't it?"

"Of course we cannot rest from the task until we have succeeded in our aim of doing away with all books, magazines, newspapers, movies, radio and television broadcasts. Only in this way, as the society has repeatedly pointed out to the authorities, can we shield our fine young people from dangerous thoughts.

"But to get back to our subject, I mean, we must not confine our control to thoughts. We must control actions, too, in the interests of decency, don't you think? And husbands are really little boys at heart, aren't they? So let us guard them from temptation. I move that the curfew should apply to husbands as well as children."

The meeting passed the motion after defeating an amendment that the curfew should also apply to wives, put forward by the only two men present.

* * *

Fungus McFlodden, lay delegate from the Chanters' and Mourners' Guild, said the meeting should go on record as being firmly opposed to allowing the sale of liquor with meals.

"I agree," said Robert Bottle of the Bootleggers' Association. "First thing you know, people will be squandering their money on food."

"I dinna ken what ye mean by that," Mr. McFlodden said. "But I'll tell ye, if leeker is to be sold at all, the only way to sell it is by the gallon jug. Let a mon drink a gallon o' whusky, an' he wakes up with a headache, or dead. That's whut we want. Aye! But let a mon drink a dram with his food, an' he feels happy. We musna allow that."

At this point Mr. McFlodden sagged perceptibly in his chair and gave a hiccough that everyone pretended not to notice.

"We musna allow the people to vote on this important question," he said. "Voting is undemocratic, ladies and gentlemen, unless the voters understand the meanin' o' temperance. Hic!"

Fine work had been done in equipping beer parlors with cheap and nasty furniture, and prohibiting wine, distilled beverages, food, music and unauthorized talk with the opposite sex. But, said Mr. McFlodden, much remained to be done.

He renewed his suggestion that beer parlor patrons should be forced to drink their beer in total darkness while an organ played solemn music to remind them of their sinful ways.

The meeting voted unanimously in favor of his resolution, with one member abstaining. That member was Mr. McFlodden, who had suddenly gone to sleep.

Increase Decided In City Jail Fees

Outside municipalities and the R.C.M.P. are going to have to pay more for the use of the city jail and courtroom.

The Victoria police commission yesterday decided to send out a letter to the effect that the following increases will be made.

The R.C.M.P. will be billed for $1,500 annually instead of the $100 rate charged in earlier years.

Saanich will get a $2,000 bill for its prisoner accommodation and use of the courtroom. It used to pay $900.

Esquimalt's rate has been set at $700 by the commission and Oak Bay will be billed for a sum just amount. Both municipalities used to pay $300 each.

Central Saanich, which has never been charged an annual fee, will be asked to remit $500 annually.

The increase in rates were made necessary by the increased cost of operation. Figures were supplied by Chief Constable J. H. H. Watson at the request of the police commission. Meals are not included in the new rates.

"That gives us about $6,000 which is roughly half the cost of maintaining the jail and courtroom," said commissioner Brent Murdoch.

Police Estimate $101,661

Cost of operating Victoria's police department and court room is expected to cost city taxpayers $101,661 this year.

This was indicated by Police Chief John Blackstock yesterday in his annual estimates presented to the police commission.

Last year's estimate was $96,330 but it did not include the cost of the court which has been set at $18,826 this year.

Revenue from the court last year increased the city's income by $66,131.

"The new estimates do not take into consideration what the police union may receive from arbitration on a new salary scale.

"That item was estimated at $244,375 last year's scale.

Interchange Favored

Mayor Claude L. Harrison said yesterday he will meet reeves of the outside municipalities next week to discuss arrangements to allow police to operate within one another's boundaries.

"Rather than have friction in the matter, I will see how the reeves feel about swearing in police in each other's municipalities," he said.

He was discussing the matter at a police commission meeting.

Police Body Wants Room

The Victoria police commission wants larger quarters to hold meetings so the public can attend.

At present meetings are held in a small room on the second floor of the police station that is used for juvenile court.

"This is a pokey room," declared Mayor Claude L. Harrison.

"No one knows where to find it," commented Commissioner William Hamilton.

"We should use the courtroom, where the public can get in," said Commissioner Brent Murdoch.

Health Costs Show Drop From 1951

What's this — a reduction in costs?

City officials looked twice when they received this information, but happily it's true. Union Board of Health estimates this year total $103,257, compared with 1951 budget of $104,839.

The board was advised yesterday estimates were down because ... and maintenance of the new health and welfare building of about $12,000 will be charged to the building department estimate.

Floor Prices For Animals ToBeSought

CALGARY, Feb. 29 (CP).—The federal government will be asked to open provincial trade channels now closed because of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan and to establish floor prices for cattle, lambs and hogs, it was decided at a special meeting of 500 Alberta livestock men here today.

The meeting passed resolutions favoring:

Immediate efforts by the federal government to clear interprovincial trade channels, exclusive of the quarantined area, for livestock and livestock products.

A floor price for fat lambs of 25 cents a pound live weight in Alberta.

As an emergency measure until July 15, a floor price for cattle that will net the producer at least 28½ cents a pound.

LOWER PRICE

Support prices for "A" grade hog carcasses on Alberta markets at $26 a hundredweight.

J. L. Polley, federal supervisor of livestock marketing for Alberta, told the meeting that cattlemen should not expect a floor price in the near future, and that such a price if established would be considerably below the level before the outbreak.

Agriculture Minister David Ure said he spoke to the B.C. deputy minister of agriculture who told him B.C. regulations closed the border to horses and poultry as well as cloven-hoofed animals. The B.C. official said his government was "closing its eyes" to cheese and butter, but next week might ban chicks and eggs.

"I asked him what he was going to live on and he said fish," Mr. Ure stated.

Help Hinted For Cattlemen

OTTAWA, Feb. 29 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner today gave a hint of possible federal government plans to expand financial aid to Canada's livestock industry.

The Canadian government, he said in the Commons, does not intend to let cattle producers bear the whole brunt of the consequences of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in South Saskatchewan.

While he described the significance of the scourge, federal officials behind the scenes worked to prepare new legislation and orders-in-council to give the government greater liberty in granting aid to livestock producers financially hit by the disease.

Boys Find Bag, Help Solve Holdup

TORONTO, Feb. 29 (CP).—Two boys who found a navy duffle bag floating in Lake Ontario off Toronto's east end helped solved the $50,000 robbery of a bank here a week ago, police said today.

The boys' discovery enabled police to pick up Robert Nichols, 22, who was charged with armed robbery. Two other men are being sought.

Police also recovered $15,000 and two guns stolen from the Bank of Montreal branch, where staff members were tied up as they arrived for work.

Population Sag Closes Schools

REGINA, Feb. 29 (CP).—Schools have closed in almost 1,000 rural districts in Saskatchewan as a result of the decrease in the province's rural population since 1940.

This was disclosed today in the Saskatchewan legislature by the annual report of the education department.

The report said enrolments in these districts were so low that schools could not operate. Children in these districts now attend nearest operating schools.

The average salary for Saskatchewan school teachers during 1950-51 was $1,914, an increase of $96 over 1949-50.

Soldier Given 14-Year Term For Shooting

PEMBROKE, Ont., Feb. 29 (CP).—A 35-year-old Welland, Ont., army sapper today was sentenced to penitentiary for 14 years after an Ontario Supreme Court jury convicted him of manslaughter in the slaying of another soldier following a drinking party at the Petawawa military camp last New Year's eve.

Spr. Joseph Lanoie, dressed smartly in his army uniform and wearing two rows of service ribbons, gulped but showed no other sign of emotion as sentence was passed by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence.

The judge told Lanoie he did not disagree with the jury's verdict but said "it seems to me you were very, very close to conviction for murder."

He added, however, that he would not pass a life sentence because Lanoie had had a "far from easy life."

Lanoie was charged with the murder of two fellow soldiers, but the crown proceeded only in the case of one—Spr. James Wesley Caufield, 20, of Pine Falls, Man. The other soldier killed in the shooting affray in the officers' mess the night of Dec. 31 was Craftsman Clifford E. Johannson, 19, of Saskatoon.

The second charge against Lanoie, that of murdering Johannson, was ordered held over until the next assizes when the crown will decide whether or not to proceed with it.

Canadians Face 15-Year Sentences

SEATTLE, Feb. 29 (AP).—Ashley Griffith and James E. Mason of Vancouver, B.C., were sentenced for up to 15 years in the state prison today on each of two counts of grand larceny.

Sentences are to run concurrently.

They were convicted Feb. 8. One count involved a charge of bringing into King County $15,800 obtained by "trick, device and bunco" from William Henry Watson, 65, a retired Canadian laborer. The other involved the alleged bilking of an Alaska fisherman of $3,000 on a sure fire scheme to win horse race bets.

Reds Reported Seeking Deal With Franco

LISBON, Feb. 20 (INS).—Franco Spain was reported today to have received a billion-dollar Russian offer for its neutrality in the east-west cold war.

The reaction of the Spanish government was not known.

However, it was said to have rejected a previous Kremlin bid promising the return of 12,000 Spanish war prisoners who fought with the Germans on the eastern front and repatriation of Spanish children transported to the Soviet Union during the Spanish civil war.

The first overture was said to have been made through Iran. The second, with the additional lure of the return of one billion dollars in Spanish gold shipped to Russia when Franco's civil war victory became apparent, was said to have been transmitted by Soviet representatives in Cairo and Amman.

Russia allegedly wants in return the right to buy Spanish wool and captain war materials and the pledge that Spain will not join the western defense entente.

American diplomatic sources in London said they know of the reports, but said thus far they have received no confirmation from Madrid.

R.C.A.F. Pilot Arrested Following Wild Joy Ride

KENORA, Ont., Feb. 29 (CP).—An R.C.A.F. officer was arrested here today after a Harvard training plane "beat up" town in this area made a spectacular pass under the centre span of the 150-foot high Keewatin Bridge, then crash landed on a nearby lake. Officials said the flight was unauthorized.

The pilot, FO. Keith Christian, was taken into custody after he climbed out of the plane and walked ashore. He was taken off from the air force station at Gimli, Man., 60 miles north of Winnipeg early today.

About 9 a.m. his plane roared low over Kenora on route to his home town at Keewatin.

At Kenora, Norman and Keewatin, residents told how the aircraft narrowly missed buildings as it "beat up" the area. A quick pull-out over Kenora kept the plane from striking the Bank of Nova Scotia and Dome Church spire. At another point witnesses said the plane was below the top of industrial chimneys in the north end of the town.

About 7 a.m. the plane ran out of gas and Christianson brought it down on Rabbit Lake, one mile north of here. The plane came down, wheels up, and skidded across the snow for more than 100 yards. Only apparent damage was to the propeller, possible damage to the bottom of the fuselage and centre section of one wing.

At Winnipeg air force officials said the case is under investigation.

Doctors Criticize TB Cure Report

DENVER, Feb. 29 (INS).—Two prominent Colorado doctors took sharp issue today with the "premature announcement" of a new wonder drug for tuberculosis.

Both doctors said reports of a drug that would stop TB in its tracks have had a tragic and demoralizing effect on TB patients.

The censure was leveled by Dr. John Zarit of Denver, chairman of the TB control committee of the Colorado State Medical Society, and Dr. William S. Klein, medical director of the National Jewish Relief Society's hospital near Denver.

News of the anti-TB drug was released in New York, Feb. 22, with indications that it would cost less than $100 a patient for treatment and would "cure" TB quickly.

In a joint statement to newsmen today, Drs. Zarit and Klein said: "The unfortunate early announcement has created a hysterical attitude on the part of TB patients, prospective TB patients and their families."

They added: "Some persons now actually believe they can be cured of TB without prolonged hospitalization and without surgery."

The men said they were not discrediting the drug nor the research that has gone into it, but that it should be regarded only as an experiment until proven by scientifically controled use.

'Accosted and Pushed Into Car,' All Nursing Sister Remembers

STANLEY, N.B., Feb. 29 (CP).—Lieut. Elizabeth Sansom, army nursing sister who turned up in New York Tuesday after being missing since Christmas Eve, said tonight she was "accosted and pushed into a car" at Montreal Dec. 26 and after that her mind went blank.

She arrived back in this farm and lumbering town, 30 miles northeast of Fredericton, today and her father gave the first information on her experiences. But many questions were left unanswered.

The 26-year-old niece of Lt.-Gen. E. W. Sansom, Canadian overseas corps commander during the last war, was reported to have been the victim of amnesia when she was located in New York Tuesday. She disappeared after leaving the army hospital at Kingston, Ont., Dec. 24.

Her father, Herbert Sansom, tonight released to the Canadian Press a paragraph from the letter which had given the first news of her whereabouts. She had mailed it from New York Feb. 21. He received it here Feb. 25.

She had written him: "The last I remember I was on the way to the station at Montreal to return to Kingston when I was accosted and pushed into a car. Since then my mind has been a blank. As things cleared I realized I was in a Salvation Army shelter in New York City. I am writing this to let you folks at home know where I am."

Mr. Sansom, who wouldn't elaborate on the contents of the letter, said that following its receipt he got in touch with the army. The attractive nursing sister was soon located. She arrived in Fredericton Thursday.

Defense Accepts List Of Vancouver 'Books'

VANCOUVER, Feb. 29 (CP).—It was shown today that during a seven-year period 286 persons carried on bookmaking in Vancouver, operating from 46 centres, mainly in downtown districts.

The "bookie list" was presented in court today by Prosecutor Gordon Scott in the conspiracy trial of 26 persons alleged to have been involved in the operating of betting houses.

Defense counsel accepted the list as evidence and admitted some of the 26 accused and some 270 alleged co-conspirators carried on bookmaking. No action has been taken against the co-conspirators.

Acceptance of the list will shorten the trial now in its second week as the hearing can continue without calling the evidence of 16 police witnesses.

In the 14-page "bookie schedule," 16 of the defendants admitted they kept bookmaking establishments. It listed the dates and places they accepted bets.

The period covered in the list was from Jan. 1, 1944, to Oct. 23, 1951.

Oddities

MARYSVILLE, Calif., Feb. 29 (AP).—Secretary-treasurer Don W. McColly of the California State Farm Bureau yesterday told a regional meeting:

"To my congressman, I say: 'You are taking now (in taxes) almost everything but my shirt. So you might as well have that, too'."

McColly jerked off his shirt. So did eight others, including federation president George Wilson.

McColly insisted it was a spur-of-the-moment idea.

But several members liked it so well that McColly said they agreed:

"We will try to get everyone to send his shirt to his congressman, if we can get a million shirts in the mail then Congress will see just how much we want to cut taxes."

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 29 (AP).—The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company found it had overcharged the Idaho House of Representatives 10 cents so the company mailed a dime to the chief clerk of the House.

He forwarded it to the state auditor.

Now the auditor must send the clerk a receipt for the dime, make out a deposit slip (four copies) and credit it to the House accounts.

"Personally," he sighed, I wish the phone company had kept the dime."

Blaming the Wrong Party

WHEN any great misfortune occurs there is a human tendency—understandable perhaps, if sometimes regrettable—to look for someone to blame. Thus in the matter of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan, a major disaster for that province and for Canada, we find that one lone German immigrant has become the focus of public and official attention. There is a suspicion, no more than that at this juncture, that this bewildered stranger who speaks no English was the "carrier" of the virus which caused the outbreak.

The authorities through the newspapers across the country have been at pains to point out that the immigrant's agency in the spread of the disease is nothing more than conjecture, based on the fact that he came to Canada from a farm in Germany where it was prevalent. Further, the official belief has been strongly expressed that if examination should prove him to be a carrier he was an innocent one, transmitting the infection as another man might spread a common cold.

Despite these explanations, however, there have been cries of "sabotage" south of the border, and even amongst our own people one hears regrettable comments of a similar strain. It is a cruel and vicious thing that this young man, whose statements in Vancouver have the ring of sincerity, should be condemned before the investigation of the case has even begun. It may transpire that he played no part whatever in the entry of the virus into this country.

Even if the examination should establish a possibility—and it can scarcely do more—of his having been responsible, the blame would seem to rest not on him but on the Canadian authorities for bringing him from Germany. Apparently it was known that this man came from a farm infected with foot-and-mouth disease, and the virulence of the disease is or should be well known to all officials handling the movement of human beings or livestock. It looks as if the Canadian immigration service officials in Germany were culpably lax in permitting the man to come to Canada from an infested area, whether he was a carrier or not.

A Noted Educator

CONFIRMATION of the belief that men build institutions, even as in turn they are shaped by them, can be seen in the career of the late Dr. John M. Ewing, principal of Victoria College, whose regretted passing on Thursday came as a sudden shock to the community. A man of many talents, Dr. Ewing had the rare gift of infusing others with the enthusiasm he himself felt for causes to which he had given his support. Under his direction Victoria College expanded materially in times when progress was difficult in a war and postwar economy, the interest and support it received from the community were strengthened, the standard of its output was maintained at a high level, and death itself cut short many of Dr. Ewing's tenaciously held plans for its future. The loss of his driving force will be felt.

While Dr. Ewing was best known in the field of education, he also had interested himself in a wide range of community interests with cumulative results. He was known as a witty and delightful lecturer, was an author in his own right, and carried lightly the many attainments which he hid, rather than displayed, under a genial and most engaging manner. He was a member of the Masonic order, and past president of the Laurier Club, besides acting in an advisory capacity in many other ways. His brisk step and his cordial smile will be missed from Victoria streets by the wide circle of his friends.

The real test of Dr. Ewing's career, however, will rest on the success he achieved in his own profession by the direct and cordial relationships he established with those under his authority on the College Faculty and student body. If to educate means to lead out what is within the individual, Dr. Ewing by example and precept was a very real part of the institution he directed. His work will now become part of a long tradition in which this community has been singularly fortunate.

Not Good Enough

THE B.C. TELEPHONE COMPANY seems to be needlessly arrogant in the matter of cutting off service when a monthly account becomes overdue. No other commodity dealer would dream of such summary treatment of his customers. Let a telephone subscriber fail to pay his monthly toll on the dot and within a few days he is either warned or cut off without warning.

Too many complaints reach this office for such occurrences to be isolated. Instead they seem to be part of studied policy, and, remembering that telephone service here is a monopoly with no alternative service at the recourse of the subscriber, such a policy is scarcely good enough. The criterion of public utilities should be public convenience.

As matters stand now presumably a person might have 10 years' unblemished payment of his monthly accounts, yet let illness, a postal or other mishap prevent him some month from remitting before the deadline and he is immediately penalized. A subscriber might be called out of town over the billing period, perhaps, and return to find himself without telephone service. That sort of thing is patently unfair and quite unjustified.

This is not to plead on behalf of debt delinquents. The telephone company must pay its way and it cannot afford a large backlog of unpaid accounts. There should be a happy mean, however. The records should show easily enough whether a subscriber is a prompt payer or one who regularly lags behind. Certainly there is no call of arbitrary action or an attitude that implies scant consideration for the public on whose patronage the telephone company relies for its existence.

NOT SABOTAGE

Sir,—The foot and mouth disease is due to a specific virus. A virus may be popularly defined as a "contagious living fluid," for the causal agent (which is not known as far as I know), is definitely ultramicroscopic, if not "electronic" in size. To blame an unfortunate immigrant—a German forsooth (I would have thought of a somewhat more prominently suspicious nationality at the moment!) is a very simple as well as widely appealing suggestion, but one extremely difficult to prove. It is out of the question that the presence of the virus can be revealed microscopically. By means of a filtrate taken from footwear or clothing, possibly, and if still alive, by subsequent physiological and very difficult tests only, the presence of virus may be proved. But suppose that the suspect became contaminated while working on an infected farm in Saskatchewan, what then? Why not look for a more bovine solution?

THE MEANS TEST

Sir,—Re the means test, as applied to the old-age pensioners. No one objects to a means test as such, so long as it is based on the actual assets and holdings of the pensioner concerned, but when it is calculated on a hypothetical and mythical formula that has no basis in fact, it becomes an outrage. For instance, when the Dominion government introduced and participated in the payment of pensions, it drew up a formula which compelled the applicant to submit a complete list of his holdings which shall we say by way of example, included a $1,000 war bond bearing 3 per cent interest. The government decided that if the amount had been invested with them in a paid-up annuity at age 70, it would yield 12 per cent interest annually instead of 3 per cent paid on the war bond issue, and they would have to charge against the monthly pension the difference between its actual earnings of 3 per cent of $30 yearly and the 12 per cent annuity plan equal to $144 yearly. The result works out as follows:

The $1,000 in paid-up annuity at 12 per cent yields $120 per annum, or $10 monthly. $1,000 in war bonds at 3 per cent yields $30 per annum, or $2.50 monthly, a difference of $7.50 per month. This last amount deducted from the cost-of-living bonus of $10 awarded by the provincial government, allows the recipient only $2.50 per month, instead of the full amount of $10 monthly, which he is legitimately entitled to if the assets were assessed on the basis of his actual holdings; and this is not all. Once you submit your holdings, the amount thereof becomes fixed for all time, or at least as long as you live, and although by reason of the fact that because of an inadequate allowance, you have been compelled from time to time to draw on your principal, and do so until it all has been dissipated. You are still charged on the basis of having in your possession the full original amount of $1,000, and assessed accordingly . . .

HONOR TO CROWN

Sir, If one is to believe Blair Fraser, in his "Backstage at Ottawa" (Maclean's, March 1), then the bottom of all understanding must at last been reached. In it he says there will be no more curtseying to the Governor-General, Mr. Massey.

It seems extremely unlikely that Mr. Massey, a highly intelligent and much traveled man as we know, would think for a moment that the "bob" is accorded to him personally. He might even agree that it is not given entirely to the very occupant of the throne, but to the Crown itself. Who then are these advisors with such an inferiority complex that by their acts suggest that a Canadian-born Governor-General is not entitled to as much respect, in his office, as any of the previous holders. Is it because Mr. Massey is not entitled to wear a coronet that they do not wish to concede the act of courtesy?

Let them go to the youngest recruit for information. He will be only too glad to tell them that the salute he gives any officer is not, I repeat not, given as a servile act from one man to another, but as recognition that the officer holds his commission from the Crown.

Perhaps the future will hold something of a back-slapping competition.

E. L. MOILLIET, Major.

Native Nuance

Gerald Waring

By FRANK KELLEY

OF THE MAKING of many books there is no end." That's an old Biblical saying, well-worn, and means today that there's always room for another, in some publisher's considered opinion. It it has visible merit, as I believe a manuscript I had the privilege of perusing recently possessed, all the better. It was sent to me following a bit appearing in the magazine section of The Colonist some months ago. Among some others who wrote me regarding it was the Old Country girl who had traveled all the way from Warwickshire to wed B. W. Leeson, who had spent his adolescent years at Winter Harbor, Quatsino Sound, and became well known across Canada as a photographer of native studies, single and in groups.

* * *

Photography was Ben Leeson's particular art form, and a native picture "By Leeson" was tops of its kind, as the product still is wherever exhibited. When he taught himself to be effective in "holding the mirror up to nature" on a photographic plate he had already gained the confidence of the Koskeemos and the Quatsinos, many of whom had found employment in a clam cannery operated by his parents, where he met old-time long-heads, hamatas characters and "doctors," most of whom had tribal lore on their tongues to tell an understanding listener.

When I first met Leeson he was a member of the B.C. Police, stationed at Quatsino. That was before the authorities had clamped down tight on all ceremonies dear to the native culture, and the natives were still permitted to make "shows" provided a representative of the law was present. There was one of those "dos" on when I happened to be at Quatsino settlement one winter night, and with some of the settlement folk I went along to see the spectacle as a guest of the constable.

* * *

The "acts," bordering on the sensational, unfolded bits of folk-lore and included symbolic dances, all rendered by the most sincere exponents of theatrical miming imaginable. It was a revelation; and when the fire in the centre of the large lodge was allowed to burn out, it meant the finish of the performance for us, when we repaired to the little hotel where Constable Leeson regaled us with story after story he had heard from the lips of old natives, mainly concerning their origins and what was in store for good and bad Indians when Sakhalie Tyee shunted them elsewhere.

All of this may be a roundabout way to state what I set out to do a while back. There was a picture of Ben Leeson with the story of the native "show," and Mrs. Leeson wrote from Vancouver (her husband died some years ago) and asked if I would send her a copy. That done, after a little time there came another letter telling me about "B.L.'s" passing and that he had left a manuscript of a story in which some interesting characters and a bit of romance figured. Would I like to read and comment on it?

* * *

That manuscript came along; and I make no hesitation in stating that if there is anything to this interest voiced in the uplift of the British Columbia native and his background, here is considerable word-of-mouth folklore ceremonial descriptive writing by one who was familiar with such things, as well as an altogether "different" love story, highly feasible, lived by a young man from Old Quebec imbued with church teachings, who opened a store on Quatsino Sound, and a young Indian girl whose bethrothed, away on a sealing voyage, does not return. To me it was a well-turned story, and would appeal, if published, to all interested in the future of the original owners of this land.

Reports From Ottawa

NEITHER mouring for the King nor a new governor-general has altered the pageantry of opening of parliament. The tradition-laden rites, rooted in the centuries of parliamentary rule, follow their exact pattern.

Members of the Commons, having sworn allegiance to the new sovereign, gather in the green chamber under the eye of Speaker W. Ross Macdonald to await the governor-general's summons. Muffled by the leaded windows and thick hangings, the big, 11-ton bell in the Peace Tower booms 3 o'clock.

Conversation dies. Eyes turn towards the heavy wooden doors guarded by uniformed doormen. The chamber suddenly is filled with the dull reverberation of wood striking wood of a heavy mallet thudding thrice against the very portals of parliament.

The sergeant-at-arms, accoutred in black and with sword by his side, inquires who knocks. Then he walks to the speaker's dais and announces the governor-general's messenger demands to be admitted.

* * *

The gentleman usher of the black rod is the Senate's counterpart of the Commons' sergeant-at-arms. Similarly costumed and armed, but also bearing a two-foot ebony rod tipped with a golden lion's head; he marches hautily to the speaker's dais and delivers his message: it is the governor-general's wish that the Commoners attend him in the Senate chamber.

For nearly 500 years, since Henry VII, black rods have been beating on the door of British parliaments. Their knocks symbolize the Crown's recognition of the authority of parliament and the sancity of its right to meet and make laws.

The commoners crowd out after black rod. Led by their black robed speaker and preceded by the sergeant-at-arms carrying the four-foot mace of gold, they walk to the senate chamber and take their places at its lowest end, behind a brass rail.

This is the Queen's Chamber. Its motif is red, contrasting with the Commons' green. It is the only parliamentary chamber to which the sovereign or her representative has access. It is crowded with senators, diplomats, dignitaries and ordinary folks who come each year to witness the pageant of parliament.

* * *

On a throne flanked by his first minister and his aides sits the governor-general, Rt.-Hon. Vincent Massey. His principal task is to read the speech from the throne written for him by the government, and outlining the reasons why he has summoned parliament into session.

The words of the speech—first English, then French—are the only words he utters. Otherwise the speaker of the Senate, Hon. Elie Beauregard, speaks in his stead.

Then the commoners withdraw, their golden mace again proudly to the fore, symbolizing the ancient rights and privileges that centuries ago the common people wrested from Plantagenets, Tudors and Stuarts. After they leave, the governor-general and his retinue depart.

Back in their own chamber, the commoners assert another old right—that of transacting the people's business before the Crown's. Prime Minister St. Laurent rises to move first reading of a bill usually a pro forma bill "respecting oaths of office," which some say is merely a piece of blank paper. Only then does parliament begin the debate on the throne speech.

Ending Regimentation

(From The Montreal Gazette)

ONE of the persisting residues of wartime regimentation in Britain has finally been wiped out by official abolition of identity cards, which every adult Briton has been required to obtain and carry since the outbreak of the Second World War.

Since the end of the war, the regulation had become increasingly nominal in its enforcement and effect. But it had been stubbornly preserved by the former Labor government, and upheld by the courts, despite periodic objections from the press and public, and occasional defiance of the law in question.

The identity cards, inscribed with only the name and address but a designated registration number of the bearer, were denounced in post-war years as an infringement on personal freedom, and at least a symbolic restriction redolent of a police state. It was argued that the dictate of security which led to institution of the system in 1939 hardly prevailed with recession of the wartime emergency.

The Conservative government, dedicated to abatement of controls and restrictions, has been compelled by circumstances to maintain and even tighten economic controls of various kinds. But it has now made a definite start toward fulfilling its tentative undertaking last November to abolish social and political fetters.

While cheers in Parliament greeted the government's announcement of the system's end, which incidentally will save nearly $2,000,000 a year credit for a strong assist in the matter should go to Mr. Clarence H. Willcock, a Briton who believes in standing up for his rights as a free citizen. About a year ago, he challenged the validity of the identity-card regulation by refusing to show his card to a police officer, who was in process of booking him on a charge of speeding in his car. He was subsequently found guilty of having violated the registration law and his appeal against this conviction was dismissed.

But the outcry provoked by the case, and the somewhat adverse comments by the judges who upheld his conviction under the law as it stood, led to action in high places.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IT WILL BE interesting to see the statistics, presently, on the number of Canadians who have gone to the States this past winter for a holiday in California, Florida and the other winter resort areas. With the restrictions lifted, the number must have been extremely large. My branch bank manager says it is a phenomenon; and a service club which I lately attended for lunch with a friend had a turn-out so small that, on a casual count, it was figured that 17 of the membership of around 50 were away south for a winter holiday.

* * *

This is the start of a year that will be remarkable for travel among Canadians, by all the signs. Even without the prospect of the coronation travel facilities to Britain and Europe are said to be extremely congested, and were so long ahead of the normal booking. Many people who were loth to leave their business during the recent years of lively prosperity have apparently decided that this is the year to relax.

A Newfoundland friend, aware of the above trends, has written to suggest that, since this is definitely a traveling year, it ought to be the one in which mainlander Canadians might very well choose to visit the new province. "Anglers especially," he says, "and people interested in boats and small craft, amateur artists looking for unusual landscapes to paint, those attracted by genuine handicrafts, will be glad, 10 years from now, that they made the acquaintance of Newfie before it lost its individualistic qualities."

* * *

He says it may look far away to a British Columbian or a westerner; but, not as far as England, and, some ways, not as far as the palm-belt where so many Canadians now battle for a night's lodgings. He enclosed a sample of the travel material on Newfoundland one can get from the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, Ottawa.

Perils of Treaties

By RAYMOND MOLEY

From New York

AMONG the many fantastic projects, schemes, and ideas fostered by the former first lady, Eleanor Roosevelt, has been the so-called Covenant on Human Rights of the U.N. This jumble of vague aspirations and cunningly contrived commitments grew out of the Declaration of Human Rights actually adopted by the Assembly some time ago. The whole mess is still floating around among the various agencies and committees of the U.N. There is no immediate danger of general agreement on its language, but there is plenty of danger that some time it may come, with the approval of our naive and incompetent managers of foreign policy, squarely before the United States Senate for approval in the form of a treaty.

If anything like it should ever be confirmed, we would witness, as Senator George has said, an abandonment of the form of government under which we have lived.

* * *

The vital point is that once these beguiled or beguiling representatives of ours commit themselves to such a declaration, and as a treaty embodying it is enacted, we have abandoned our constitutional rights. For a treaty becomes supreme law.

Senator Bricker, joined by more than 50 other senators, has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to limit the effect of such agreements. The spontaneous rallying to the Bricker proposal by senators of both parties shows the deep misgivings that this business in the U.N. has evoked. The senators feel, no doubt, as Bricker phrases it, that "at present the United Nations appears inspired by an ambition to define and to enforce by treaty the economic and political rights and duties of every human being in the world. The most comprehensive of these proposed treaties is the United Nations draft covenant on human rights."

* * *

Some of the inspiration behind this proposed amendment came from the American Bar Association. Patiently, constantly, and with a demonstration of great legal ability, a committee of that body has been laboring on this subject for a long time.

The constitutional amendment proposed rules out completely any treaty of executive agreement that has to do with the rights of citizens of the United States under the Constitution. This simply means that these rights are matters that pertain exclusively to the relations between American citizens and their own government.

Moreover, the proposed amendment provides that no treaty or executive agreement shall "alter or abridge" the Constitution or laws of the United States unless expressly authorized by Congress.

* * *

Finally, it provides that executive agreements shall not be made "in lieu of treaties."

This amendment should be promptly submitted to the states and ratified. It will protect the institutions of this country from the foolish commitments of our diplomacy, from the President down to our representatives at the U.N.

In the World Of Religion

By ARCHDEACON E. GWYNNE LIGHTBOURN

A front-page story in The Canadian Register states that in Communist countries throughout the world, two cardinals, 27 archbishops, 81 bishops, 19 prefects apostolic, six administrators apostolic, six vicars general and one visitator apostolic have been murdered, imprisoned, expelled, or otherwise impeded in the exercise of their offices by the Reds.

The largest number of these is in China, with the countries now incorporated in the Soviet Union ranking second. Other countries included in the list are Albania, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Korea, Poland, Rumania and Yugoslavia.

Dr. N. S. Fraser, O.B.E., a grandson of the first minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, St. John's, Newfoundland (the latter came to St. John's 110 years ago) has been an elder of that congregation for 55 years, and his son, Dr. J. O. Fraser, is also a member of the session.

* * *

Of the 7,211 congregations of the Evangelical Church of Germany in the Soviet-controlled eastern zone, over 24 per cent have no ministers at present.

Seventy-nine religious study classes were organized last year in the penitentiaries of the United States under the National Council of Churches' division of religious education, and 2,992 prisoners completed one or more courses of study. The majority attained Grade A or B standing, and one young man, who said he entered prison "as a bum," and has since been discharged, is now studying for the ministry in a theological college.

A commission of the National Assembly of the Church of England has recommended that experimental deviations from the Prayer Book forms of worship be permitted for an interim period, and that a body be set up to advise the Archbishops of Canterbury and York in the appointment of bishops.

* * *

The council also re-examined the problem of the establishment, pointing out that it has "conspicuous merits and conspicuous dangers," but concluded that the merits outweigh the dangers. It is significant that, on the whole, Non-Conformists in England are as keen as Anglicans to maintain the establishment in a modified form, as a witness to the national belief in the Christian character of the state.

Our mention recently of the former German Lutheran minister who had been ordained to the Roman Catholic priesthood, and had been permitted to continue in the married state has prompted a correspondent to write that in the recent past over 20 European former Protestant ministers have been "ordained to the priesthood on the same conditions."

The new Patriarch of Czechoslovakia is the Metropolitan Eleutherius, a Russian citizen.

Religious Science Film Offers Scenes of Rare Beauty

"Hidden Treasures," a religious science film of the Moody Institute of Science will be shown at the First Baptist Church, Quadra and Mason at 9 p.m. Sunday.

Among the many beautiful things shown will be minute flowers, 100 times smaller than the smallest rose.

Many of the unusual scenes were taken at the risk of the cameraman's life. The expedition took the camera crew to dungeon caves and on exploration aboard the Hancock Foundation research ship.

Produced by Dr. Irwin A. Moon, director of the Moody Institute, the picture represents 18 months of tedious camera work in out-of-the-way places to find the small but perfect samples of God's handiwork.

They Always Ask for Money

Pastor Decides to Pass Up Movies; Theatre Manager Never Came Calling

LAKE CRYSTAL, Minn., Feb. 29 (NANA). — A Protestant pastor here, after hearing his church members' reasons for not turning out on Sunday, announced he would no longer go to the movies, and gave these reasons:

The manager of the theatre never called on me.

I did go a few times, but no one spoke to me. Those who go there aren't very friendly.

Every time I go they ask me for money.

Not all folks live up to the high moral standards of the films.

I went so much as a child. I've decided I've had all the entertainment I need.

The performance lasts too long. I can't sit still for an hour and three-quarters.

I don't care for some of the people I see and meet at the theatre.

I don't always agree with what I hear and see.

I don't think they have very good music at the theatre.

The shows are held in the evenings, and that's the only time I am able to be at home with the family.

His duties at Glad Tidings Tabernacle officially start about April 1.

Weathership Seeks Object Seen by Radar

A mysterious object remains unidentified after being sighted by radar by the weathership St. Catharines yesterday, 900 miles west of Vancouver Island, according to wireless reports received in Victoria.

The Canadian weathership spent about four daylight hours searching the area where the object was sighted and remained there into the darkness before returning to her regular position.

The object was sighted at about 2,000 feet, some 50 miles from the ship. Seconds after it appeared on the radar grid, it plunged into the sea, reports said.

Canadian Survey Ship Uses U.S. Instrument

A Canadian government oceanographic vessel, the C.N.A.V. Ehkoli, called at the University of Washington oceanography dock at Seattle Wednesday to pick up one of university's instruments for use in a co-operative international survey of the waters of Puget Sound and the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The equipment, known as an "S-T-D" unit, measures the salt content and temperature of water at varying depths by means of an 800-foot cable connected to a graphic recorder. It will be used temporarily by the Canadian scientists to compute tidal currents in the strait.

The university's S-T-D is one of four in the nation and is the only one that operates semi-automatically. A winch, designed at the university, handles the cable mechanically, instead of by hand.

Richard Herlinveaux of Nanaimo, a technician of the government's Pacific oceanographic group, is in charge of the party. Eugene Collias, a University of Washington research oceanographer, will join the Canadian scientists for several weeks to acquaint them with the operation of the equipment.

The university oceanography department has been conducting a survey of Puget Sound for several years under a $50,000 yearly grant from the U.S. Office of Naval Research. The Canadian government undertook a similar survey in October and findings of the two groups will be shared.

Data being gathered will be valuable in pollution control and fishing operations, and in case of a national emergency.

Next games Tonight: Seattle at Tacoma, Vancouver at New Westminster, Saskatoon at Calgary.

Showing little effects of a rugged schedule which had them playing their sixth game, including three on the Prairies in eight days, Victoria Cougars came up with a bit of a surprise at Memorial Arena last night.

Flashing their best passing attack in months during the first two periods, the defending P.C.H.L. champions plowed under the league-leading New Westminster Royals, 7-4, before a pleased gathering of about 3,800 fans.

Victory certainly improved Cougars' play-off hope. It enabled them to climb within six points of Vancouver and the last play-off berth when the Canucks were edged, 2-1, by Seattle Ironmen at Vancouver. The Cougars have a game in hand and their position could improve more tonight. They will be idle but pulling for the Royals against Canucks at New Westminster and Saskatoon Quakers against the Stampeders at Calgary. The right results could make the fight really interesting.

LEAD TOO LARGE

Disorganizing the Royals with an all-out attack, the Cougars sped to a 3-0 first-period lead despite their usual missed chances at the start, stayed off a comeback attempt at the start of the second period to extend it to 6-1 at the end of two periods. They were outplayed in the final 20 minutes but the lead was too large for the demoralized Royals.

Leading the way for Victoria was hustling Doug Anderson, who seemed to be everywhere as he came up with a "hot" game. He broke a lengthy scoring drought with a vengeance with the first Victoria hat-trick on home ice and, for good measure, set up a goal for Walt Atanas.

The hard-working centreman skated hard, aggressively and persistently every minute he was on the ice. He started the Cougars off with the first two goals of the game, potted his third to bring to a halt a Royal rally which could have assumed more serious aspects had they been able to slice the lead to a single goal, and made the play for the goal which prevented what might have turned into a third-period rout.

ROYALS DISORGANIZED

It was the Cougar attack which stopped the Royals. The usually smooth-passing Mainlanders couldn't get organized for any sustained effort and it was just as well. The Cougar defense was spotty and the club showed the effects of its tough schedule, appearing to tire in the last period.

Cougars were minus Andy Hebenton, still nursing the leg injury he received at Saskatoon, and rested Bob Ballance. Jack McIntyre took over Hebenton's spot on the line with Ed Dorohoy and Bob Brampton, Anderson pivoted a promising trio with Les Hickey and Walt Atanas on the wings, and Reg Abbott centred the other line with Joe Evans on left wing and Leon Bouchard and Joe Medynski sharing right-wing duties.

Royals were minus Ollie Dorohoy, Don Slater and Ken Ullyot, using defenseman Butch Houle [illegible] Cougars again battling up their Guyle Fielder-Gordie Fashoway-Bob Paul line except for a lucky goal by Paul, the other combinations couldn't take up the slack. Aime Default spoiled Jerry Cotnoir's shutout with Royals' first goal to make it 100 scoring shots for his B.C.H.L. career and later added his 101st.

Eocnen Decleene, who saw his goal average take quite a beating, wasn't as sharp as usual but the better club won. Decleene was hit over the eye by a puck during an early Victoria power play and the game was held up for 10 minutes while two stitches were taken to close the wound.

Dorohoy outlucked repeatedly, drew an assist on the game's best goal to tie Fashoway for second place in the individual scoring race and move within two points of the leading George Agar.

Cougars now rest until Tuesday, when they host the tough Quakers, making their last tour of the Coast. Seattle is here Friday and the Cougars go to Tacoma Saturday and Seattle Sunday. As it has turned out, these four games could decide.

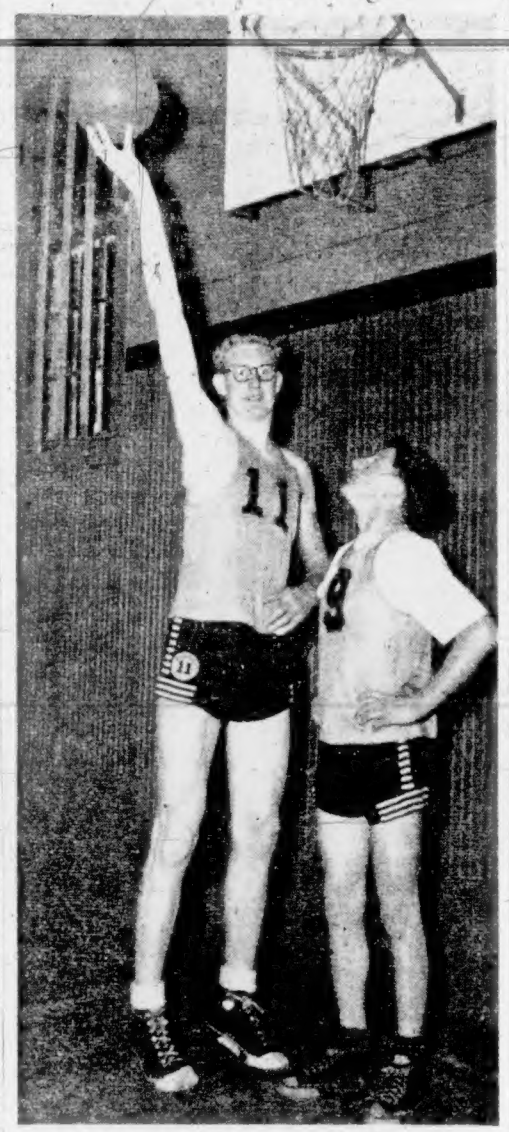
He Has an Advantage



One of main reasons for success of McMorrans intermediate "B" boys basketball team is centre Stuart Dobbie, who stands 6 feet 8 inches. One of tallest basketball players in B.C., Dobbie dwarfs teammate Chummy Crabbe, who is 5 foot 8 inches. Although Dobbie was held to six points by double check last night, McMorrans won Island title by edging Cumberland Merchants, 35-33, at Cumberland last night.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Canuck Protest Upheld

VANCOUVER, Feb. 29 (CP) — Vancouver Canucks' protest over a disallowed goal against Tacoma Rockets here last Friday was upheld today.

This decision was made by Pacific Coast Hockey League president Al Leader.

The game ended in a 6-6 tie but the goal would have given Vancouver a 6-5 lead in the third period.

Referee Dick Davis disallowed the goal because the puck had hit his leg before it was knocked into the net.

Leader ruled the tie is to stand until March 21 when Tacoma plays here. Should the previous tie affect the standing at that time, the teams will get a 15-minute rest period after the game and then resume the February 22 game at nine minutes of the third period with Vancouver leading, 6-5.

Barnes Paces Oak Bay Quintet to Win Over Totems in School Casaba League

HOW THEY STAND

	W.	L.	F.	A.	Pts
Mount View	6	1	510	141	8
Victoria High	4	3	298	301	6
Esquimalt	4	3	174	145	6
Oak Bay	3	3	268	268	6
Mount Douglas	0	7	224	301	0

Victoria High School Totems' chances for the Inter-High School Basketball League crown suffered a rude jolt at the Fernwood gym last night when the fast-stepping Oak Bay High School quintet whipped the home team, 45-39, before a fair-sized crowd of loyal supporters.

Oak Bay's win considerably tightened the league standings, moving the Bays to within two points of Mount View, Victoria High and Esquimalt, all tied for the top rung. Mount View is in the driver's seat at present, with a game in hand over the other two pacesetters.

It was a case of too much Ken Barnes for the Totems last night. The high-scoring Oak Bay forward was deadly on long shots, amassing a total of 18 points, and played a strong defensive game.

Totems opened strong, building up an early lead and holding a 12-6 margin at the end of the first quarter. But paced by the uncanny shooting of Barnes, Bays made short work of Victoria High's lead and walked off the floor at half-time with a 21-16 edge.

Both teams opened up in the last half, with the Bays still setting a torrid pace. They continually shook a man loose and capitalized on several defensive errors by Victoria High to hold a 29-22 lead going into the last quarter. Several times in the final canto, the home team cut the margin to five points, but Oak Bay, seeing victory within grasp, matched the Totems basket for basket and walked off the floor with a well-deserved win.

Barnes took scoring honors while Len Anderson turned in a brilliant game for Totems, netting 12 points.

Dickinson & Dunn had too much experience for the Totems B squad and trounced the city students, 38-22. Totems made it interesting in the first half as they held the winners to a 13-11 half-time lead. However, the city leaguers broke the contest wide open in the final two frames, outscoring the home team by 14 points.

In the curtain-raiser, Victoria High girls dumped Oak Bay, 32-22, to provide the only bright spot of a rather dismal evening. Vi Yetman paced the winners with 14 points, while Marion Stevenson topped Oak Bay with 12 points.

Line-ups follow:

Victoria High Girls—Yetman 14, Calder 5, Hval 2, Allred 2, Taverna, Ross 5, McMillan, Howarth. Totals 32.

Oak Bay Girls—Young, Hill-Irving 8, Bole, Stevenson 12, Wray, McCallum 2, Shipley. Total 22.

Dickinson & Dunn—Allan 4, Bamford 9, Garner 12, Brodie, McMillan 3, Parker 7, Richmond 1, Woollett 2. Total 38.

Totems B—Ash 5, Worthington, Kirchner 2, Woollett 2, Bevian 7, Whan 4, Abbott 2. Total 22.

Oak Bay—Veitch 8, Erwin 7, B. Smith 7, Little, Barnes 18, Mitchell 5, Brown, Allen. Total 43.

Totems A—Jackson 9, Anderson 12, Oakes 3, Shields 5, Pederson 7, Zarro, Dennison 2, Hedges 1. Total 39.

Ironmen Help Trailers --- Wild Game at Edmonton

Seattle Ironmen, winning their second successive game since defenseman Danny Sprout took over from Tony Hemmerling as coach, moved close to clinching fifth place in the P.C.H.L. last night and gave Calgary Stampeders and Victoria Cougars renewed hope in their late drive for play-off positions.

Showing more defensive strength than usual, the Ironmen edged out the sixth-place Canucks, 2-1, at Vancouver. Victory gave them a six-point bulge over the Canucks, not as secure as they were a few days ago, in sixth place.

In the night's third game, Saskatoon Quakers trimmed the Flyers, 7-3, in a wild, penalty-studded game at Edmonton.

Hockey was dull at Vancouver. There was no score in the first period although Seattle's Walt Samanski twice missed great chances on power plays. Larry Popein put Canucks ahead early in the second period and Ironmen could do little although Canuck goalie Nick Pidsodny looked shaky until Hal Tarala deflected Stan Maxwell's shot into his own net.

Joe Bell made his 35th goal of the season the winner as he scored after he broke away from Vancouver attack with Rudy Filion and Nick Tomiuk.

Flyers were right in the game at Edmonton until they lost playing-coach Doug McCaig midway through the second period. McCaig was given a match misconduct for poking referee Dick Davis in the face from the penalty box and all the fight seemed to go out of the Albertans. The Quakers took the lead with a manpower edge and made it 5-2 before the end of the period.

McCAIG IRATE

Trouble started when Edmonton's Eddie Joss and defenseman Howie Milford got into a mix-up. McCaig joined in and also received a minor penalty. He continued his tirade against Davis from the penalty box, finally reaching out and knocking the referee off balance with a clout on the forehead. He stormed out of the penalty box after the official but was held off by other players.

From there, George Seniek took over, and scored a third to cinch it in the final period after Flyers had moved within two goals. Chuck McCullough, veteran centre, had a goal and two assists for the winners. Frank Kubasek and rookie Earl Johnson each had a goal and an assist for the losers.

The Saskatoon win broke a streak of 11 consecutive unbeaten games on home ice for the Flyers and moved Quakers within six points of first place.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 29 (AP) — South Africa's Bobby Locke, breaking par consistently, took a three-stroke lead today in the second day's play of the Mexican Open Golf Tournament with 70-67—137.

Defending champion Robert Vicenzo of Argentina, with 140, was five strokes behind. The South African's nearest competitor was Agusin Martinez of Mexico with 138 to Lock's 135.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who had a 69 in the first round, shot a one-over-par 73 today for a total of 142 and a tie for sixth place.

Minor Pucksters Play at Nanaimo

Midget, bantam and juvenile all-star teams of the Victoria Minor Hockey Association will travel to Nanaimo today to compete in play-offs tonight against Nanaimo clubs. All games will be the first in best-of-three series.

Members of the midget team are asked to meet at Memorial Arena at 4 p.m. for transportation. Players to make the trip are: Gittens, Stone, Dawe, Harris, Erb, S. Foster, R. Youell, Taylor, Boston, Dawson, Binks, Hamilton, B. Foster and Bryce.

Dorohoy Only Two Short In P.C.H.L. Point Race

Victoria's Ed Dorohoy, the defending P.C.H.L. scoring champion, is right back in the fight for the 1951-52 point title.

The hard-working centreman received credit for an assist missed out in the summary of Wednesday night's game at Saskatoon and set up a clever goal last night to tie Gordie Fashoway for second place, only two points behind Calgary's leading George Agar.

Agar has 78 points, Fashoway's 76 includes the league high of 46 goals and Dorohoy's includes the league high of 51 assists.

FLYERS MOVE UP

Behind the top trio come two Edmonton Flyers, who have been moving up steadily. Rookie Earl Johnson has been scoring at a rapid clip of late and is tied for fourth place with Frank Kubasek, who has been helping him from his centre position.

While only the top five appear to have a chance for the title, Saskatoon's Alex Kaleta and New Westminster's Guyle Fielder, another rookie, are within striking distance for a fast finish with 67 points.

Including games to Wednesday, however, Fielder is the most potent point-getter on the basis of game average. The smooth centreman got his 67 points in 45 games for an average of 1.48. Kaleta is averaging 1.32 and gained on Fielder last night. Agar has a 1.28 average and Ed Dorohoy was at 1.27 until last night. In all, 19 players are averaging better than a point a game.

Eleven players have already scored 30 goals or more, semi-close to 40 have surpassed the 20-goal mark. Four players have reached 70 points, 11 others have more than 60 and an additional 12 are over the half-century mark.

O'Brien Tops 1,000 Points

SEATTLE, Feb. 29 (AP). — Seattle University's Johnny O'Brien got his thousand points and six to spare last night.

Needing only 30 points to become the first college player in the history of basketball to hit 1,000 in one season, O'Brien popped in 36 to lead Seattle to a 79-75 victory over Portland University.

The new total — set in 35 games this season — bettered the former high set by George King of Morris-Harvey College in 1949-50 by 39 points, and raised O'Brien's per-game scoring average to 28.7.

McMorrans Take Crown; Cab Girls Blow Big Lead

Two Victoria basketball teams carried leads into the second games of Vancouver Island finals at Cumberland last night but came home with only one title.

McMorrans entered their intermediate "B" boys game against Cumberland Merchants with a four-point lead from their 36-32 victory in the first game and eked out a 35-33 decision last night to gain the right to meet the mainland winners for the provincial title. The Resurrectors first Saanich and Suburban League quintet to win an Island title, took the two-game total-point series, 71-65.

C. & C. Taxi intermediate "B" girls did not fair so well. They entered their game with a 14-point lead, absorbed a 35-16 set-back and dropped the series by five points. Cumberland lost the first game at Victoria, 36-22, but came out on top in total count, 57-52.

McMorrans were given a stiff battle for the boys' laurels. Cumberland grabbed an 8-5 lead at the quarter, held the three-point margin at 17-14 at the half to trail on total points by a lone point.

Winners outscored the home club 13-11, in the third quarter and added eight points against five in the final canto to win both the game and the series.

Line-ups follow:

McMorrans—Jones 5, C. Bennett, B. Bennett 1, Crabbe 6, Dunlop 4, Bergerson, Gregson 14, Hedrick. Total 35.

Cumberland Merchants—Milburn 8, Brown 4, Mounce, Wynn 2, Rosen 9, Edwards 2, Banks, Beecroft, Tomezko 10. Total 35.

United Meets Scots Today; Sign Austrian

Victoria United, currently pacing the second half of the Coast Soccer League schedule with three points in two games, will be out to bolster its lead at Vancouver this afternoon.

United faces the no-longer invincible St. Andrew's squad, which is reported to be completely rearranged, at Callister Park while New Westminster Royals host Vancouver City at Queens Park.

St. Andrew's will have Andy Menyes at centre forward with former United winger Ah Travis at outside left and Wilf Thompson, up from Dominions of the Vancouver and District League, at right fullback.

United's line-up will be unchanged from the one which bowed to the Royals in the Anderson Cup final last week. Fullbacks Joe Robbins and Bill Hope protect goalie Bill McAllister. John Pickburn, Sid Robbins and Jack Robbins form the intermediate line while coach Wally Milligan pivots an attacking line with Stan Bob and Denny McGee at the inside berths and Cedric Robb and Bernie Clarkson on the wings.

Franz Lohner, 28-year-old Austrian fullback, has been signed by United and will join Jack Strachan and Lorne Ettinger as spares for today's game.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29 (AP) — Ted Williams and Ralph Kiner head a small but impressive list of major league baseball stars who have not signed their 1952 contracts.

An Associated Press survey today revealed that 29 players — 17 in the American League and 12 in the National — have not come to terms.

The majority will be classified as "holdouts" if they fail to sign by Saturday, the official start of spring training.

Total of 400 Anglers To Be in Derby Final

Plans for the second annual ladder derby of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association were almost completed at a meeting of officials on Thursday night.

Of greatest interest to sports fishermen is the fact that 400 anglers will fish-off on August 24 for approximately $3,000 in prizes. The main award will be an outboard cruiser worth $2,000. There will be four other fishing prizes, including a valuable hidden-weight prize so that even the finalist who gets a small one will have a chance. There has been no decision on what the other prizes will be but a refrigerator and a radio-phonograph are under consideration.

[illegible] run for 10 weeks, from June 4 to August 12 with 40 anglers qualifying each week. Rules for qualifying will be the same as last year. Once qualified on a weekly ladder, the angler is assured of fishing in the big fish-off. Each derby week will be from Wednesday mornings to Tuesday nights.

Only qualification for entry is membership in the association and the purchase of a derby ticket. The ticket will have to be surrendered when a fish is entered but if it fails to qualify, purchase of another ticket will enable the angler to start over again. Six weekly prizes, script of as yet undetermined value, will be up for competition. Although each angler can qualify for the fish-off but once, he can enter the weekly competitions each week.

Memberships and derby tickets are now on sale at Victoria sporting goods stores and boathouses.

Trout Prospects Good

"All indications are that they should have a good season." That was the answer yesterday of inspector G. C. Stevenson when the Game Department was asked what fresh-water anglers might expect for the trout season, which opens this morning and ends on November 30.

Inspector Stevenson felt that trout fishing should be particularly good in the Duncan area, naming Rogers, Shawnigan, Somenos and Cowichan Lakes as likely producers. He named Loon and Dog Lakes in the Alberni area as good bets. Some parts of Upper and Lower Campbell Lakes are still covered with ice but most lakes are clear.

Most fishermen agree that trout fishing in rivers does not look too promising at the moment. However, the Oyster is fair for steelhead and the Campbell and Little Qualicum are producing both steelhead and sea-run cutthroat. The Cowichan River is only fair at the present time but should pick up with another steelhead run due later this month. The Sooke River was said by the Game Office to be "poor."

The one thing that is certain is that there will be more fishermen out than ever. Tackle stores report business good, particularly in the sale of the very necessary licenses. It shouldn't be forgotten that one is needed and that purchase before April 1 saves the increase. The price now is one dollar, it doubles in a month. Nor should it be forgotten that the daily limit of trout is 12 and that anything under eight inches must be released. And do it carefully. They grow up.

Just Winding Up

The brant season ended yesterday and it was not a particularly good one, especially during the last few days. Hunters who feel that the season should extend later have a chance to realize their wish. Inspector Stevenson said yesterday that there are indications the Game Commission may request from Ottawa permission to extend next season by one week. This will require a change in the regulations of the Migratory Birds Convention Act . . . Grilse fishing in Saanich Inlet can still be rewarding although it has been spotty. It appears that there is plenty of feed and that fishing has been good only when the fish are feeding. However, quite a few are getting some good catches with the best time usually reported as early morning. Fish are to be found at the Goldstream end and also out of Brentwood, fishing from Whittaker's Point to McKenzie Bay. There is always the chance of hooking into a scrappy winter spring in the mouth of Tod Inlet in the mornings. Bucktail flys with a small spinner, trolled fast and worked, appear to be the most successful lure. Abalone spoons are second choice for grilse, many of them now around the two-pound mark.

Button Wins Blade Title For Fifth Straight Year

PARIS, Feb. 29 (CP).—Dick Button tonight won his fifth straight world figure-skating championship with a brilliant exhibition at the Palias de Sports.

A crowd of 13,000 cheered wildly as the 22-year-old Harvard senior whizzed through a spectacular series of spins, whirls and jumps.

Button virtually clinched the men's title in the compulsory competition Thursday. In the free-skating tonight he followed the same program that won his second Olympic crown last week at Oslo, Norway.

Peter Firstbrook, 18-year-old Canadian senior men's champion from Toronto, finished seventh.

The United States also took second and third place. James Grogan came in second and Hayes Alan Jenkins finished third.

Joan Westwood and Lawrence Demmy of Britain won the world championship for Paris dancing on skates. This is the first year that the event has been recognized as a world championship.

France's Jacqueline Du Bief, third in the Olympics behind winner Jeannette Altwegg of Britain, became a favorite for the women's world title after completing five of the six compulsory school figures which count about 60 per cent in the final judging.

Miss Altwegg, world champion in 1950-51, did not defend her crown this year. Miss Du Bief piled up 90.8 points in the first five figures. Little Tenley Albright, 16-year-old skater from Newton Center, Mass., runner-up in the Olympics, was a shade behind the French girl with 89.9 points.

Suzanne Ann Morrow of Toronto was sixth and Marlene Smith of Niagara Falls, Ont., seventh.

Sonya Klopfer, U.S. champion, rated third, Barbara Wyatt of Britain was fourth and Detroit's Virginia Baxter was fifth.

Robinson Puts Title on Line For $1 Purses

NEW YORK, Feb. 29 (AP).—Middleweight champion Ray Robinson signed a contract today to defend his title against the winner of the March 7 bout between Paddy Young and Ernie Durando.

Robinson will receive $1 as his share in the May 16 Heart fund 15-round benefit at Madison Square Garden.

The middleweight champion leaves tonight for San Francisco and another $1 purse. He meets Carl (Bobo) Olson of Honolulu in a 15-round title bout March 13, a benefit for the Damon Runyon cancer fund.

Huskies Win

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 29 (INS).—Washington rolled up a 75 to 37 score as it defeated Washington State at Seattle tonight in the next to last basketball game of the northern division season for each team.

Washington rolled up an early lead and held a 42 to 20 advantage at halftime over the hapless Cougars. The husky second team played the whole fourth quarter.

Bob Houbregs, Washington's 6-foot-7-inch centre, led the scoring with 20 points.

Frick Picks All-Time Yankee Team

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 29 (AP).—Baseball commissioner Ford Frick interrupted his tour of the spring training sites today to pick an all-time New York Yankee team. He chose only four men with the Bombers in recent years — Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich, Phil Rizzuto and Joe Gordon.

Frick, who covered the Yanks as a baseball writer between 1924 and 1933, selected Babe Ruth as his other outfielder with DiMaggio and Henrich. He played Lou Gehrig on first base, Tony Lazzeri on second and Red Rolfe on third, with Rizzuto at short and Gordon as utility infielder.

"My pitchers are the pair who helped Miller Huggins get his Yankee dynasty started, Waite Hoyt and Herb Pennock," he said. "And old Wiley Moore is my relief man. There's only one catcher and that's Bill Dickey."

Mercurys Win

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 29 (AP).—Edmonton Mercurys, Canada's Olympic hockey champions, today trounced the United States team 7-1 in an exhibition game played in a heavy snowstorm.

The weather was so bad that the puck often was stuck in the drifts.

The Americans didn't score until the 17th minute of the second period.

George Abel, Robert Watt, Jack Davies and Engelbert Miller were stars for the Canadians, who tallied twice in the first period, twice in the second and three times in the third.

B.C., Manitoba Favorites In Curling Championship

WINNIPEG, Feb. 29 (CP).—Top curlers from every province will register here tomorrow for the Canadian curling championship, opening at the Amphitheatre Rink Monday and running through until Friday.

As in last year's competitions, 11 rinks will participate, with two rinks from Ontario, and Newfoundland back for the second straight year.

Draw for the 11 rounds will be held Sunday night at the curlers buffet supper. One rink will have a bye each round.

And the stone-fossers are in for a busy program before they go into play at 3 p.m. C.S.T. Monday. Luncheons, suppers, receptions are planned by civic officials and Winnipeg curling clubs throughout most of Saturday and Sunday. Monday morning the rinks will hold practise rounds of six ends, then later assemble for the motor parade to the rink for the start of the regular round-robin schedule.

EXPERTS HESITANT

So far, the experts have been hesitant about picking a favorite. Many remember last year's Canadian final at Halifax when Don Oyler of Kentville, N.S., upset the dope and swept through undefeated.

However, some railbirds are looking for a two-way fight between Manitoba's Billy Walsh and British Columbia's Reg Stone.

The little-known Walsh from Winnipeg Fort Rouge Club was impressive throughout the recent Manitoba annual bonspiel and wound up with a brilliant victory over the veteran Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg Deer Lodge, a former Dominion titleholder, in the provincial final.

Stone from Trail, home of 1948 champion Frenchy D'Amour, has the same rink, except his lead, which lost only one match in the 1949 finals at Hamilton, Ont., when Ken Watson of Winnipeg went through undefeated.

STAR GOLFERS

If the Stone rink doesn't cop the curling title here, they say they are willing to take on any foursome in a round of golf, come summer.

Second-man Roy Stone, 37-year-old brother of skip Reg, is the local professional. Lead Doug (Buzz) McGibney won the Trail Golf Club championship, while Reg and third Bill Smith complete one of the hottest golfing foursomes in the Kootenays.

But the B.C. quartet found golf a little out of season when it arrived here this morning, and decided to concentrate on the winter sport.

Oyler won't be back to defend his crown but Nova Scotia will have a strong entry in Henry (Hank) Blanchard's quartet from Truro.

The other skips are: Northern Ontario, Jimmy Guy, Kenora; Quebec, Ken Weldon, Montreal; Saskatchewan, Frank Hastings, Nipawin; Alberta, George (Art) Simpson, Bassano; Ontario, Dr. J. R. Clark, Peterboro; New Brunswick, Ralph Limerick, Fredericton; Prince Edward Island, Frank Hansen, Charlottetown; Newfoundland, John Town; Newfoundland, John Fonelin, Corner Brook.

Texas Golfers Far in Lead; Horne Well Up

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 29 (CP).—Two Texas sharpshooters pulled away from the field today in the second round of the $10,000 Baton Rouge Open golf tournament.

Tommy Bolt fired a four-under-par 68 to go with his first-round 69 for a total of 137 and a one-stroke lead over Jack Burke, Jr.

Burke took a two-under-par 70 for 138. Burke was low in first-round play with a 68.

Seven strokes behind Bolt with 144s in third place were Doug Ford, Felice Torza and amateur Bert Weaver.

Stan Horne of Montreal was in the 146 Bracket with seven other pros and two amateurs. He fired a 72 to go with a first-round 74.

Hodges Cup Draw

The first round in the women's Hodges Cup competition will be played at the Gorge Vale Golf Club tomorrow.

Draw and starting times follow:

Golf--- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD
Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

The simpler you can get your golf swing, the better it's going to be. An important reason for keeping your left arm straight is that a bend at the left elbow just introduces another angle in the swing, and that angle must be straightened out before impact with the ball. In doing so you are very likely to throw the clubhead just enough out of line to kill a good shot. Look at this picture of the backswing before the player's wrists start to cock. The left arm is practically an extension of the shaft of the club. That means you are really swinging with an arc of wide radius and you can get the clubhead traveling very fast, but still rhythmically on its way down. When you let your shoulders bring the club around like the picture shows you are not going to get your arms all cramped so you can't swing them. You also are coiling up the body so when your left heel comes down to the ground, early in the downswing, you get the effect of a spring being let loose to smack the ball.

B.C. Council of Women Favors Margarine Color

Mrs. Tilly Rolston (Ind. Vancouver-Point Grey) has full support for her margarine coloring bill from the Provincial Council of Women of B.C.

A council delegation saw the cabinet yesterday, and the margarine coloring issue was at the top of their brief.

The resolution noted that almost all low-income families are now using the butter substitute and the housewife wastes a lot of time adding coloring, and petitioned the government to require manufacturers to color their product.

The council's brief also asked that the sales tax be removed from children's shoes and clothing and school text books and supplies.

Sales tax exemption for articles selling for up to 33¹/₃ cents, instead of the present 15 cents, was also requested.

The cabinet was also asked to recommend inspection of meat on a local district basis.

The delegation felt that meat poisoning, such as occurred recently in a Kelowna hospital, could be avoided by such a scheme.

Among other recommendations, the council approved a scheme for the treatment of drug addicts, and supported a proposal for the treatment of alcoholics.

Open House at U.B.C. Expects 50,000 Guests

More than 50,000 visitors are expected at University of British Columbia's open house March 8.

Every three years, the university opens its doors to the public for a complete tour of inspection of buildings on the 500-acre campus.

Topping a huge spread of new exhibits will be a three-acre outdoor model of the Fraser River, a scale model of the Kitimat project, a salon of art, photography and handicrafts done by students and faculty members.

Of interest to the scientific-minded will be the 4,000,000-volt Van De Graaf generator; a lie detector that seldom fails, and the Collins Helium Liquifier, which can reach 1-10 of a degree above absolute zero.

Premier Byron Johnson, members of the cabinet and the Legislature have been invited to the formal opening.

Repairs Made, Elaine Ready For Service

The Canadian Pacific steamship Princess Elaine will return to Gulf Island service Tuesday morning from Vancouver, Capt O. J. Williams of the C.P.R. announced in Victoria yesterday.

The Elaine will leave Yarrows yard Monday following repairs which cost $32,000, after it struck a submerged object a month ago.

It's also announced the Princess of Nanaimo, undergoing annual refit in Victoria, will return to service between Vancouver and Nanaimo March 15. Princess Patricia is now on the service.

Tenders Deadline Set at March 17

Deadline for tenders for purchase of the C.P.R.'s Princess Mary has been extended to noon March 17. The closing had originally been set yesterday, but was deferred to give more time for inspection of the vessel, C.P.R. authorities said. The Princess Mary has been up for sale since January.

Mayor Gets Teeth Into Dog Problem

Mayor Claude L. Harrison got his teeth into Victoria's dog-catching problem yesterday and continued yelping until he solved it.

It all started a few months ago when Parks Administrator W. H. Warren sent a letter to to the police commission stating the Pound By-Law was "rather loosely applied in respect to dogs running at large" and that the police should assist and see that it was more strictly enforced.

The police commission at that time couldn't see why the force should go into the dog-catching business.

Correspondence flew back and forth between the police commission and city council.

Yesterday a letter was tabled at a commission meeting over the signature of A. J. Patton, city solicitor, in which he quoted sections of the by-law which suggested the police were responsible for helping the poundkeeper, Alex Kennedy.

FULLY OCCUPIED

"The poundkeeper informs me that his time is fully occupied with duties at the city pound. He answers calls from citizens at all hours of the day and night and he cannot find more time to go to the many places where dogs are reported running at large," the letter stated in part.

Police commissioner Brent Murdoch said, "Mr. Warren has been trying to get rid of this job for a long time."

Mr. Kennedy comes under the direction of the parks department headed by Mr. Warren.

"It's going to be a great state of affairs if a policeman has to carry half a dozen dog chains around in his pocket—catch the dog and tie it to a tree and then call the wagon," Police Chief John Blackstock declared.

"The poundkeeper spends three mornings a week in Oak Bay—no wonder he hasn't time to do our work," Commissioner Murdoch said.

Then the questions and remarks were barked out by the mayor—ex-city prosecutor—in his typical courtroom manner.

TWO MASTERS

"It seems to me he (Mr. Kennedy) is trying to serve two masters," Mayor Harrison said. "If he can't serve the city he should go to Oak Bay."

"Call Mr. Warren, get Mr. Kennedy," he said. "Better ask Mr. Patton to come over, too," he added to the police chief.

Then the fur started to fly and the investigation was in full swing.

"Where is the by-law now?" asked the mayor.

"I didn't bring it," said Mr. Patton.

"Did you know Mr. Kennedy works for Oak Bay, too?" asked Mayor Harrison.

"No, I didn't know that," answered Mr. Patton.

"What's the point?" asked Mr. Patton.

"There seems to be a difficulty in this city catching dogs," answered the mayor in a soft voice.

He asked Mr. Warren to locate Mr. Kennedy to explain how he got appointed to the job in Oak Bay.

"He is probably out," said Mr. Warren.

"He is probably out in Oak Bay," said the mayor.

JOINED CROWD

Court Clerk William Ostler joined the crowd with his copy of the Pound By-law.

"This one is all right," said the mayor as he started wading through the volume.

"Oh, this would take hours," he finally said and pushed the by-law to one side.

Mr. Kennedy finally entered the room and admitted it was impossible for him to do his job.

"Can you look after the city without Oak Bay?" asked the mayor.

"Yes," answered Mr. Kennedy.

"Well, gentlemen, I think that answers the whole thing," said the mayor as he proudly turned to the commissioners and others in the room.

Cotton Slump Halts Market

LONDON, Feb. 29 (Reuters)—Egyptian cotton circles said today nothing short of a government mediation can end a price deadlock which has brought the great Alexandria cotton market to a standstill.

Cotton—representing 90 per cent of Egypt's exports—slumped after the government abolished fixed price minimum Feb. 18, a measure designed to stimulate export business.

The renewal of price limits, imposed in June, 1951, has created a deadlock which threatens the country's internal economy unless an early settlement is reached.

Simpson's Preferred Advances

MONTREAL, Feb. 29 (CP)—Stock prices were mixed, trading tapering off sharply from the moderate first-hour pace.

Papers pushed irregularly higher. Banks were steady to a trifle lower. With the exception of senior oils, which were unchanged, all other industrial groups were mixed.

Simpson's preferred jumped 4¾ points to a new high of 98¾ before closing at 98¾. Dominion Bridge lost two points at 83¼ after ranging between 83¾ and 84¼.

Higher were Canadian Celanese, Powell River, Bell, Seagram's, Hudson Bay Mining, Disco and C.P.R.

Stocks losing ground included Canadian Industries, Consolidated Smelters and United Steel.

Mines clung to a bare majority of advances through most of the session. Hollinger, Kenmayo, Montauban and Weedon firmed.

Western oils extended yesterday's firmness with a good list of advances. Gains ranged to about 25 cents. Central Explorers, Jupiter Oils, Phillips and Western Homestead were among gainers.

Final Hour Selling

TORONTO, Feb. 29 (CP)—Steady final-hour selling today erased moderate stock market gains and dropped base metals sharply.

Retail stores and miscellaneous issues formed industrials' strongest sections. Manufacturing companies and constructions edged upward but papers and textiles weakened. Utilities, agricultures, foods, liquors and banks held gains and losses in balance while steels and refining oils dipped.

Western oil gains ranged from pennies to about 75 cents. Calgary and Edmonton, Canadian Williston, Central Explorers, Central Leduc, Jupiter, National Petroleum, Western Homestead and Triad climbed strongly.

Base metals closed lower as Consolidated Smelters, Mackeno, Merrill, Mindamar, Normetal, Quebec Labrador, United Asbestos, United Lead and Waite Amulet traded lower.

Senior golds were firm. Dome and Giant Yellowknife pushed upward.

Quatsino Active

VANCOUVER, Feb. 29. Mining shares made the best show today, although there were again odd good features in oils.

Quatsino was active in the afternoon session, adding 3 cents to close at .63½, while Beaverlodge added 8 cents at 1.18. Lower were Estella, 2.05, down 7 cents, and Van Roi at .61, off 1 cent. Pioneer Gold advanced 5 cents at 2.15.

United Oils was in firm demand adding 11 cents at 1.53, while Federated, Superior, Del Rio and Central Leduc gained up to 10 cents.

YESTERDAY IN THE HOUSE

By JIM NESBITT

It was a political mixture we heard from in the Legislature Friday. Liberal McRae, Conservative Pitcher, CCF'er Calder and Labourite Uphill.

And there were presents for everyone. Mr. Ritchie brought a crate of Vernon Arm apples for Messrs. M.L.A. and Mr. M. [illegible] of red spring salmon from Prince Rupert.

Mr. McRae [illegible] business was spoiled. He stood right away from the microphone, his voice was a threat and he couldn't be heard in the gallery, especially when he said, in the House session.

Mr. Uphill, facing another election, was his thundering old self. He announced he believes both the premier and Mr. Anscomb in their speeches about the [illegible] in Coalition. 10 ANNOUNCEMENTS

RE PLAYPAIR PARK

An annual general meeting will be held on Monday, March 3, 1952 at 8 p.m. at Tuxedo Community Hall for the purpose of electing a new Playfair Park committee. Nominations may be sent or phoned in to Mr. Schmeck, 1140 Hood Street, G 7431. It is felt time for the annual meeting the Saanich Municipal Parks Board requires that there be a committee to conduct these activities before they will provide a supervisor for the summer playground season. As the present committee feels interest in carrying on is important that a new committee be elected if the district wishes to have a playground for Playfair Park this summer. We urge all those who are interested in maintaining Playfair Park as a supervised playground to attend this meeting.

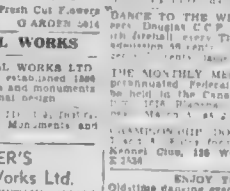
WHERE IN THE WORLD

by Stanley Cooper



IS A TOWN WITH A NAME TOO LONG TO PRONOUNCE?

On the island of Anglesey in northern Wales is a little village whose chief claim to fame lies in its outrageously long name. Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllantysiliogogogoch. Translated into English, this word of 58 letters and 19 syllables means: "Mary Church of the Pool of White Hazels rather near the Swift Whirlpool of the Church of Tysilio of the Red Cave." The name is usually written Llanfairpwllgwyngyll, or just Lanfair P. G. for short. Even though the word contains only 51 letters in the Welsh alphabet (ch and ll are considered single letters), the name, we believe, is still the longest of any town in the world. A wonderful word for a spelling bee, but we wouldn't advise attempting to pronounce it unless you're a full-blooded Welshman!

Tense Two-Week Period

Major Economic Disaster Looming If Dread Cattle Disease Not Halted

The next two weeks will be tense ones for this nation facing a possible major outbreak of dread hoof and mouth disease—grim maimer of cattle and other livestock.

Dispatches from Ottawa said yesterday if no new outbreaks of the disease occur within that time, danger of a general epidemic might be past.

Present swift slaughter and burial program among infected herds in the Saskatchewan area, where Canada's first onslaught of hoof and mouth was reported, may save the cattle industry from a shattering blow.

If the program of merciful destruction is not successful in checking the disease, this nation could be up against a disaster which has cost other nations millions of dollars in the past.

Hoof and mouth disease, feared by cattlemen throughout the world, is as damaging to livestock as smallpox and the bubonic plague to humans.

COSTLY PROCESS

Raging out of control, it can do damage to herds from which recovery is a long, costly process. Even the small outbreak so far reported in Saskatchewan and involving only 400 head on 24 premises in the Regina area will require some time to offset.

In recent years the plague has almost destroyed Mexico's thriving cattle industry and is still being fought there. It has crippled livestock production in many parts of continental Europe and taken deadly swipes at herds in Britain and Ireland in the past.

Viciousness of the tissue-destroying virus disease is illustrated by records showing a stricken Germany where it struck 150,000 farms in an outbreak at the end of the last century.

Single bright spot in the picture is the fact humans appear largely immune to the disease, department of agriculture officers reported. They termed danger to humans is extremely remote.

MARKED FOR DEATH

They said the nation's meat supply was not imperilled by the present outbreak "unless it gets completely out of hand."

Additions to the list of 400 animals marked for death as control measure will depend on the results of investigations now being made, the department report said.

Just where the hoof and mouth disease originated is unknown, but it is believed to be of European origin. Occurrences in Europe in the past have moved from east to west, authorities state.

Some scientists report it has a 2,000-year European history, but actual documentation only goes back 400 years.

Transmitted by a tissue-destroying virus, the scourge has traveled through the world in modern times. There have been outbreaks in Australia, Africa, South America.

In the Old World its effects are felt from the Caspian Sea to the Atlantic Ocean.

The virus is carried in many ways by animals and by humans on their boots and clothes.

IMMIGRANT HELD

The latter may be behind the outbreak here, authorities believe. Still being held is Willi Bruntjen, immigrant to this country from Germany who went to work in the Saskatchewan area where hoof and mouth broke out after he left for the coast. He had come from a disease-stricken farm in Germany.

Object of a nation-wide search before his recent apprehension in Vancouver as a possible unwitting carrier of the virus, Bruntjen is being held while pathologists check his clothing and belongings in an effort to establish a link in the disease chain from Europe to here.

Dr. Thomas Childs, chief veterinarian for Canada, described the disease as comparable in its toll to an epidemic of bubonic plague.

"Hitting hard and fast," he said, "An outbreak of the disease [illegible] national economy.

Department of agriculture authorities are attempting to stem at its source a flood of death such as broke out in Mexico in 1946—after a lull since 1929—when hundreds of thousands of cattle were destroyed and millions of dollars spent to compensate farmers for the loss.

CONSTANT GUARD

The still mysterious outcropping of hoof and mouth disease here came despite the constant guard Canada maintains against an infection that is more or less constantly present in most of the countries of the world.

Last year a federal survey showed only Canada, the United States, New Zealand, Australia, Ireland and Scotland were free from the disease.

Now Canada has been knocked rudely off the select list and a number one alert rung in the United States which has already set in motion an automatic ban against the import of cloven-hooved animals from this country.

Canada customarily guards against the disease by barring import of stock from districts where the disease exists.

The tight restrictions also bar animal products such as hides, wool, horns, hoof, bones, and the flesh of food animals as well as manure, or admits them under strict regulation.

Horses, not ordinarily susceptible to the disease, are admitted from danger spots only if hooves are cleaned and disinfected, hay or fodder burned.

Today, theories that the disease may even be windborne or carried by migratory birds is gaining credence because of the unexplicable circumstances behind the Saskatchewan outbreak and similar ones in the U.S. in the past.

When the virus hits exposed animal tissue it causes blisters on the mouth, tongue, udder and some parts of the hoof. It may even get into the stomach and attack tissues there. The stricken animal goes off its feed. It becomes lame, loses weight.

Even if it would not die of the ailment the feverish animal suffers a rapid loss of flesh and milk production is slowed down severely. Some cows become permanently crippled for milk production.

Humans, however, have been known to eat infected meat without being affected. Cooking apparently kills the bacterial infection.

But the authorities are bucking a tough virus. Tests carried out by a foot and mouth research committee showed bone marrow from infected carcasses remained infective at low temperatures for 42 to 76 days.

To cope with the peril all premises known or suspected to be contaminated are being cleaned up, disinfected, quarantined and kept under observation.

Education Week Feature

Greater Victoria Schools Plan to Welcome Public

Most Greater Victoria schools will hold open house next Friday as a special feature of education week, which opens tomorrow.

Nationally, Mr. Everyman is invited to take a look at education and step up with some constructive advice if he thinks standards and procedures can be improved.

The slogan "Education Is Everybody's Business," is being emphasized on both the local and national scale, with the larger aspects of modern man's education highlighted.

The aim is more co-ordination between formal education—in school—and the education forced on the growing individual by way of newspapers, radio, television, movies, books and everyday living.

Exact schedule of school open house days will be publicized, so that the public may take advantage of a chance to visit.

Open house for Victoria Technical School will be Friday evening and sample work of this institution is being displayed at Paint Products Ltd. on Yates Street.

Two regular Parent-Teacher Association radio programs this week will be devoted to education week and other programs are being scheduled for the occasion by local stations.

Welfare agencies and service clubs are also expected to have special programs and features.

Sap of Trees Latest Aid In Prospecting

The sap of trees may become new species of divining rod, in search for B.C. minerals.

Rupert Haggen, C.C.F., M.L.A. from Grand Forks-Greenwood, says that a company is using tree sap to determine whether or not minerals lie beneath the earth of the Phoenix area of the province.

Experiments in several parts of the continent have shown that the sap of trees carries appreciable portions of copper and zinc where these minerals occur in lodes, he said.

Officials Open Eight Tenders On Concession

A special meeting of the Arena Commission was called yesterday to open tenders submitted on the food concession.

Eight hopeful tenderers answering the advertisement placed in many daily newspapers calling for a bid either on a percentage basis or a flat rate.

Bids averaged around a 20-80 split of the gross profits.

All but one of the tenderers complied with the deposit requirements and submitted a cheque for $500. Several others failed to quote a per capita minimum estimate as requested in the advertisement.

Arena Manager J. A. Dukowski and commission's auditors will study the tenders and report back to the commission, at which time the successful tender will be announced.

Hill Prince Favorite In Handicap

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 29 (AP)—The favored Hill Prince took a final workout in excellent fashion today and then headed a bulky field of 18 candidates named to run in the famed $100,000 Santa Anita handicap tomorrow.

The line-up, largest since the 23 horses in the 1946 handicap, ranges from such outstanding thoroughbreds as Hill Prince, top-weighted at 129 pounds, and his running mate, Bryan G., and the two top mares in the United States, Bed O'Roses and Next Move, on down to a surprise entry, Pursang.

Others slated to go in the 1¼-mile classic are:

Intent, Black Douglas, Phil D., Moonrush, Be Fleet, Lights Up, Pet Bully, County Lahey, Miche, Stormy Cloud, Sudan, Simonsez, and Interpretation.

Post time is approximately 7:50 p.m. E.S.T.

The five-year-old Hill Prince, "horse of the year" in 1950, dispelled doubts, at least for many experts, that he is nursing a gimpy leg. Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who will be aboard him tomorrow, took him for his final blowout.

The Prince was clocked at :48 2-5 for the half-mile, which is average, and clockers reported that he seemed full of run when Arcaro pulled him up at the five-eighths point.

There were several points worth mentioning about the following hand, played in a total-point duplicate game.

North dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

NORTH

♥ K 10 9
♦ K Q J 10 8 3

WEST

♦ 9 6

EAST

♥ 8 3
♦ A 7 4 2
♣ 8 6 3

SOUTH
♠ K Q J 5
♥ Q J 7 4
♦ 5
♣ A Q 4 2

At most tables North-South stopped at part-score contracts, but one pair indulged in the following spectacular bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♣
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass.

West, who had no particularly inviting lead, decided to open his top diamond. East captured dummy's ten and, feeling that the lead must have been a singleton, returned the suit. South discarded a club, then led a low trump from dummy. East ducked, and the king of course won.

South now led a low heart. West played low, and dummy's ten took the trick. Another spade lead was ducked by East, and the queen won. From there on in, declarer could breathe more easily. He ruffed a low club on the board and ran good diamonds. East had to follow to two rounds, while South discarded hearts, and when East finally ruffed, South overruffed. It was then simple to ruff the club queen with dummy's last trump and continue with dummy's last diamond. It did not matter whether or not East used his trump ace on this trick—he could win nothing else. So South actually came out with an overtrick, having lost only to the spade and diamond aces!

East was somewhat too reluctant about parting with his ace of trumps! If he had put up that card a little earlier, he could have returned a heart and ruffed a heart continuation, to set the contract. By the same token, however, South could have protected himself somewhat better than he did.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

TWO LITTLE RABBITS

Uncle Wiggily picked up the telephone in his hollow stump bungalow and spoke to the central girl who happened to be Jennie Chipmunk. Jennie had started to work for the telephone company right after Christmas.

"Hello, Jennie! Hello!" called Uncle Wiggily into the telephone.

"Oh, hello, Uncle Wiggily! How are you?" asked Jennie. For little Miss Chipmunk knew the voice of the rabbit gentleman. "How is everything over at your bungalow?" Jennie asked.

"Listen, Jennie," said Uncle Wiggily sort of serious like and important. "Listen!"

"I am listening," chirped Jennie. Her voice was a pleasant chirp, just right for telephoning. In fact, that is why the telephone company hired Miss Chipmunk. She has such a pleasant speaking voice, very clear, yet not too loud. "Of course I am listening, Uncle Wiggily," went on Jennie. "That's what I'm here for. What do you want to talk about? Did you have a Merry Christmas?"

"Listen, Jennie," said Uncle Wiggily, still more serious like and important. "I did not call you up to talk about Christmas. There is something very mysterious going on here in the snow outside my bungalow. It is very mysterious."

"Oh, how I love a mystery!" chirped Jennie. "Tell me about it, please, Uncle Wiggily! Tell me!"

"Listen, please!" said Mr. Longears and now his voice was very serious indeed. "Please get me Chief the police dog as fast as you can. Hurry! It is serious and importa..."

"Oh, why didn't you say that at first, Uncle Wiggily, and not keep me here chattering away about Christmas which is past? There you are! Chief is on the wire, Uncle Wiggily wants to speak to you, Chief."

"Hello, Mr. Longears! Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" Chief barked into his telephone at police headquarters. "What's the matter?"

"I don't know, Chief," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I was outside a little while ago, staking out my vegetable garden beds to get ready for spring. All of a sudden I saw something moving under a pile of snow in the fence corner."

"Oh, can you imagine that!" exclaimed Jennie Chipmunk listening and cutting into the telephone talk between Chief and Uncle Wiggily. "This is very serious and mysterious, Chief.

"How I love a mystery!

How I love a mystery! Do you mind if I listen in some more, please?"

"Listen in as much as you like, Jennie," said Chief. "But please don't talk and interrupt. I want to hear what Uncle Wiggily has to say."

"Oh, pardon me," chirped Jennie sorrowful like but polite. "Go on, please. Here's your party."

"Are you still there, Uncle Wiggily?" barked Chief.

"Yes, I am still here. Listen and I will tell you about it."

The rabbit gentleman told how he had seen something strange and mysterious moving under the snowdrift.

"I'll come right over, Mr. Longears!" Chief barked. Then he called: "Sergeant Bill, please get the squad car ready!" We are going to Uncle Wiggily's bungalow to see what is under the snow."

"Right, Chief!" barked Sergeant Bill who was also a police dog.

A few seconds later, with the siren screaming, "WHEE-E-E-E-E-E-E-E!" the squad car was at Uncle Wiggily's back yard where the garden beds were staked out. Chief and Sergeant Bill jumped out of the car. They ran to the drift in the corner.

"Do you see anything moving under the snow, Chief?" Uncle Wiggily asked.

"Yes, I do!" barked the police dog. "Come on, Bill! Let's dig into that snow pile and see what's in it."

"Right, Chief!" barked Sergeant Bill. The two police dogs dug with their paws. Suddenly Chief barked:

"I have solved the mystery, Uncle Wiggily. Under the snow are two little rabbits!"

Can you imagine that, boys and girls? I'll tell you more about the two little rabbits tomorrow, if the flashlight doesn't hide the toe of the bedroom slipper in the heel of the rubber boot where the bathrobe can't find it.

Advisory Board Loses Support

In a surprise move, delegates to the B.C. Natural Resources Conference yesterday defeated a resolution to recommend to the provincial government the establishment of an advisory board on natural resources.

Dean Lowell Besley, U.B.C. faculty of forestry, headed the opposition to the resolution.

The recommendation to establish the board was outlined the preceding day at the [illegible] tion, and embodied definite restrictions and limitation of powers on the proposed board.

A. H. Sager, executive assistant, B.C. Fisheries Association, outlined the proposal Wednesday in a speech titled "Role of Advisory Boards to Government."

Yesterday, Mr. Sager, although standing in favor of the resolution, added weight to Dean Besley's opposition when he said, "It has been brought to my attention by certain civil servants that they think this conference is just a pressure group.

"If the senior civil servants don't think this proposal will work, I feel it would be a failure."

Conference president H. L. Purdy took sharp issue with Mr. Sager.

The conference skirted immediate action on a resolution approving ratification by the Canadian government of the draft convention of the Canada-Japan fisheries treaty. It will be referred to the incoming executive for study.

WARNING WANTED

[illegible] asking the B.C. government to warn natural resources interests before rulings affecting disposition of natural resources.

A resolution asking for a royal commission on forestry and forest management will be taken up by the executive.

After considerable discussion, delegates also voted to recommend that the incoming executive study the virtue and feasibility of a natural resources act for the province.

New president of the conference is D. B. Turner, former secretary. J. C. Hackney was elected first vice-president, and J. F. Mines retained office of second vice-president.

E. G. Oldham retains the post of treasurer and Mr. Sager was elected secretary.

Insurance Act Changes Declared Possible Now

The government could get Hospital Insurance Act amendments through this session without being defeated, Randolph Harding (C.C.F., Kaslo-Slocan) said last night.

The legislative committee report should be considered immediately because of the expense encountered in obtaining the report. The report is unanimous and taxpayers expected some relief from the scheme, Mr. Harding said.

He and Arthur Turner (C.C.F., Vancouver East) addressed a meeting in the C.C.F. Douglas Street hall.

Viewing the political situation, Mr. Harding said his party's strength has grown considerably since 1949, despite comment to the contrary. He cited an instance within his own riding where two Liberals had contributed to the C.C.F. campaign.

Social Credit won't win one seat in the next election, he predicted.

Government candidates in the last election campaigned as Coalitionists. When the split came they promptly forgot this and said there was no mandate to carry on, by-passing important legislation wanted by the people, the speaker said.

Mr. Turner referred to a government opposition members are advocating things they voted against at the special session and at the regular session.

Mr. Turner referred to government order which would have prohibited free supply of some drugs to social assistance cases. "No matter whether the order was rescinded, it was the intention to enforce it. It's amazing how stupid this government can get."

If the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act isn't amended it will have been five sessions before anything is done to it, Labor, 38 employer groups, the inquiry committee and people generally expected the report to be considered, he said.

The Workmen's Compensation Act report isn't as favorable as it had been hoped, he said.

He said the government split was because of political rivalries and ambitions. There's no difference between Liberals and Tories, he added.

Both he and Mr. Harding said they expected the result of the Esquimalt by-election to be duplicated in the province at the general election.

Strike Stalls Ships In Australian Port

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 29 (Reuters) — Sixty-four overseas and inter-state ships were idle here today after 8,000 dock workers went on strike. The stoppage was a sequel to suspensions imposed on dock workers following a dispute on an inter-state freighter.

Boys' Band Impresses Victorians

An audience of more than 700 listened in awe to a group of youngsters put on one of the finest band concerts many of them have ever heard, last night.

The Vancouver Kitsilano Boys' Band, now on a tour of Vancouver Island, played for more than two hours to a packed auditorium at the S. J. Willis Junior High School, to be rewarded with gasps of admiration and thunderous applause at the end of each number.

Hundreds lined up the main entrance to the school at 6.30, an hour and a half before the concert was due to start. And at 8.30, half an hour after the concert started there were still people waiting for seats.

The 40 boys, ranging in age from eight to 19 years, conducted by Arthur W. Delamont, swung from opera to jazz, from musical comedy to rhumbas, with a dexterity that would test many professional musicians.

They opened their concert with the "Heroic March" by G. E. Holmes, followed by "Gioconda" by A. Ponchielli.

From time to time unscheduled modern dance numbers of the calibre of "Shrimp Boats," were performed.

Baritone John Barton pleased the listeners with songs from Gilbert and Sullivan, and the Cobbler's Song from "Chu Chin Chow."

Arthur Delamont was master of ceremonies.

A number listed only as "Impressions of 1950 Tour" brought flags from Holland and England, presented to the band on its 1950 tour of Europe, out on to the stage.

Last Rites Held For Dock Official

Funeral services for Allan Craig, former superintendent of the government graving dock, Esquimalt, were held Thursday.

Mr. Craig, born in Ayrshire in 1878, came to Victoria in 1917.

He was in charge of the installation of mechanical equipment at the drydock.

On the completion of the project in 1926, he was made assistant superintendent, and from 1940 until his retirement in 1948 he was superintendent.

He is survived by his widow, at the family residence, 1189 Yates; one son, Allan, of Vancouver, and one daughter, Mrs. J. N. Scott of Victoria. Cremation followed funeral services in McCall's Funeral Chapel.

Coroner Action Awaits Election

There will be no action taken on appointment of a chief coroner for British Columbia, at least until the next session of the legislature.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said yesterday the appointment would require opening up the Coroners' Act, and this is not government policy at the present session.

Mr. Wismer recently told the South Vancouver Island district of the B.C. Women's Institute that he favored setting up machinery to secure more uniformity in treatment of cases coming before coroners.

HINT TO DOG LOVERS

Small pups do not require a lot of drinking water as much as their regular food has liquids in it. Too much water causes digestive trouble. Offer a pup water not more than three or four times a day.

A new chance of life for previously hopeless heart cases is offered through a new technique used by a Vancouver surgeon. Where medical science had given up, he is reported to have been successful in nine of 10 cases in the last year.

In his operations the doctor, who does not wish his name disclosed, uses a special knife, clamp and spreader, made in the basement of his own home. With these, he pierces one chamber of the heart to cut away any obstruction blocking passage of the blood to an adjoining chamber and on to the rest of the body.

Committee Gets By-Law

A new tender procedure by law, passed at the last city council meeting and later vetoed by Mayor Claude L. Harrison, was referred to the executive committee at Thursday's council meeting.

The mayor returned the by-law to the council Thursday for reconsideration, along with his reasons for objecting to it. He explained that it passed at the meeting of Feb. 8 through an "unintentional slip" on his part.

The clause to which the mayor objects is one allowing the city manager to open tenders in his office in the presence of the purchasing agent and the department head concerned.

"I believe all matters of this kind, that affect the public and the public purse, should be done openly, which, of course, means in open council, in this case," said the mayor.

Considering tenders in open council was, the mayor added, a safeguard to the manager.

$100 Fine Imposed On Driver

A motorist who was involved in a two-car collision on the Gorge Road Feb. 16 in which four persons were injured was fined $100 by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court yesterday.

The fine was the heaviest handed down for careless driving for some time. Charged was Charles G. Scott, 447 Arnold.

The magistrate remanded the case to Monday for a probation report before making a ruling on the driver's license of accused.

Defense counsel Ronald Grant pleaded that Scott required his license for business purposes.

Robert J. Willis, H.M.C.S. Naden, was fined $25 for driving without a current driver's license.

Eleanor C. Child, 16 Beach Drive, was fined $35 for careless driving and was ordered not to drive except to take her husband to work for one month.

Henry F. Poirier, Gordon Head Army Camp, was fined $25 for driving without a current driver's license and an additional $5 for using a license not his own.

Pte. Robert J. Hatel, on leave from Chilliwack, was released in the custody of his superior officer following a plea of not guilty of taking a car without the owner's consent.

League Names Cressy Head Of Committee

Thomas H. Cressy, 3149 Shelbourne, was appointed chairman of an investigations and complaints committee of the recently-formed Citizens' League, Victoria Branch, at an executive meeting held Thursday night at 151 Beach Drive.

C. I. R. Watling, secretary of the organization, said yesterday the new committee is now prepared to receive complaints or suggestions at 314 Central Building or at 3149 Shelbourne.

Service clubs and other organizations have also been invited to appoint delegates to work with the league and attend general meetings.
